AUSTRO-ITALIAN FORCES ENGAGED IN FIERCE BATTLE AROUND PLOKEN

Galician Battle Subsiding and Germans Claim French Thrown Back in West—Allies Making Further Advance on Gallipoli Peninsula—King Emmanuel Urges Troops On—Pope Issues Statement and Appeal.

By Associated Press. Geneva, Switzerland, May 27.—A strong Italian advance guard today crossed the Isonzo river, after a sharp fight with an Austrian force, and arrived before the town of Moulalme, which is 30 miles from the Austrian seaport of Trieste. The first of the Austrian wounded are now arriving at the latter place.

The Italians also attacked at several points along the 40 miles of the Carinthian frontier. A battle between the Italians and Austrians now is raging around Ploken and also west of the Praedil pass in Austria. In Adige the fighting has been limited to skirmishes.

Italian forces which penetrated the Tyrol at Candino and other Italian armies which captured Cormons are now marching on Goritz, the capital of the Austrian crownland of Goritz, and Gradisca.

Both the Austrian and Italian aviation services are very active along the frontier. Many machines have been gathered at Venice to protect that city.

An airship arrived by rail at Trent yesterday from Munich, Bavaria, and a Zeppelin is reported to be preparing to follow it.

Several regiments of Bavarian Alpine troops yesterday crossed Brenner pass, which is 4,485 feet high, bound for Botzen. Between Salsburg and Innsbruck 45 trains are passing daily transporting men and material.

Berlin, May 27.—A report issued by German army headquarters today says that attacks in force, made by the French in an effort to break through the German line near the Lorette hills, have been repulsed. A large number of French killed are said to be lying in front of the German trenches.

London, May 27.—The great Galician battle is subsiding with the Austro-German forces holding the advantage.

The Berlin War Office announces German forces are progressing northeast of Przemyśl and in the Stry district.

A message from Athens says allied forces are continuing their advance on the Gallipoli peninsula and have occupied important positions by bayonet attacks.

Rome, May 27.—King Victor Emmanuel, upon taking supreme command of the Italian army and navy, issued an order calling upon his soldiers and sailors to vanquish the enemy.

The king declared that the time has come for Italy to strike and "unfurl her colors on the sacred land which nature has given as the frontiers of our country."

A declaration by the pope, made to one of the cardinals in a letter published in a Vatican organ says prayers will go out more fervently than ever "to those who have in their hands the fate of nations." The pontiff also recalled how his appeal to the belligerents for peace went unheeded and the war continued until "the terrible conflagration has extended to our beloved Italy." He calls on Catholics to practice with him for three days a strict ecclesiastical fast.

TURKS CAPTURE FRENCH TRANSPORT

By Associated Press. Constantinople, May 27.—Official announcement was made here today that a transport ship, escorted by a French cruiser, attempted a landing at Bourdroun under protection of the ship's guns.

The announcement declares the transport was captured and several of the landing party killed.

LEGISLATURE WILL NOT END WORK TODAY

By Associated Press. Columbus, May 27.—Today appeared little like the last day of the legislative session in either House or Senate. Both went calmly about the business of passing bills, but all indications pointed to a failure to finish up by tonight as planned.

A deadlock over the congressional redistricting bill seems to be one of the principal reasons for holding up adjournment.

An official of the house today declared the great wall clocks in both House and Senate would be stopped a few minutes before midnight and the hands would remain at those positions until the work was finished.

FIVE MEXICANS MAY BE HANGED

By Associated Press. Phoenix, Arizona, May 27.—Governor Hunt, to whom Secretary Bryan appealed today by telegraph suggesting a commutation for the five Mexicans condemned to death, has no power in the case. Their fate lies with the State Pardon Board. A representative of General Villa appeared before the board today to plead for their lives. The Mexicans are to die on the gallows tomorrow.

AIRMEN RAID BIG CHEMICAL FACTORY

By Associated Press.

Paris, May 27.—A French aerial squadron composed of 18 aeroplanes, each one carrying 110 pounds of projectiles, this morning bombarded a chemical factory at Ludwigshafen on the Rhine, opposite Mannheim.

Fire broke out in several parts of the factory buildings as a result of this bombardment. This factory is one of the most important manufactories of explosives in all Germany.

The French aviators were in the air six hours and covered more than 400 kilometers (240 miles).

This expedition against an important German military establishment was the French reply to the attempts of German aviators on Paris.

This information was contained in the French official statement given out by the War office this afternoon.

ZEPPELINS RAID CITY

By Associated Press.

Southend, England, May 27.—Another Zeppelin raid was made on this town last night and one woman was killed and several persons injured by the bombs which were dropped. The material damage appears to have been slight. Southend is a seaside resort forty miles from London.

Some reports say two, and possibly three, Zeppelins took part in the raid. Noise of their approach was heard about 11 o'clock. Then came the shock of the explosions as the bombs rained down from above. Some of the missiles were incendiary and threw out bright flashes of light.

British aeroplanes were sent in pursuit of the Zeppelins but did not overtake them. Southend had been the target for several raids. An Admiralty statement says two women were killed.

DANISH VESSEL IS TORPEDOED

By Associated Press.

South Shields, England, May 27.—The Danish steamer Betty was torpedoed by a German submarine in the North Sea yesterday, and went to the bottom. The members of her crew were rescued and have been brought to the Tyne.

The Betty was of 1,267 tons registry. She was owned in Copenhagen. She sailed from Baltimore April 10 for Copenhagen where she arrived May 8.

LAST VETERAN IN OHIO PEN IS PARDONED

By Associated Press.

Columbus, May 27.—Announcement today by Governor Willis that the Memorial Day pardon would go to Samuel Ferguson, aged 74, of Lima, who is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for murder, makes possible the release this week of the last civil war veteran confined in the institution.

The four other civil war veterans who were prisoners were today transferred to the soldiers' home at Sandusky on orders of the governor issued yesterday. These men, with Ferguson, were all brought to the governor's office this morning, where Governor Willis spoke to them about their release. Ferguson was taken back to the penitentiary to wait until Saturday, when he will be released.

THE MORWENNA IS LAST VICTIM

By Associated Press.

Cardiff, Wales, May 27.—The steamer Morwenna, of Montreal, was torpedoed and shelled by a German submarine at midday, noon, of Wednesday at a point 160 miles west by south of St. Ann's head. One member of the crew of the vessel was killed, while three were wounded. The others have been landed here.

The vessel was bound from Cardiff for Sidney, Cape Breton, in ballast. A Belgian trawler picked up the crew.

MINE OR TORPEDO IS NOT YET DETERMINED

Searching Inquiry Is Being Made Into Near-destruction of the Nebraskan—Damaged Ship Reaches Liverpool Tonight—All Facts Awaited Before U. S. Determines Action.

By Associated Press.

Washington, May 27.—Messages received by the State Department today from Ambassador Page and Consul General Skinner at London and Consul Frost at Queenstown fail to say definitely whether the steamer Nebraskan has been torpedoed or has struck a mine.

One of the dispatches said the Nebraskan's American flag had been hauled down five minutes before she was attacked, although her name was painted on her sides in letters six feet high.

Consul Skinner's message says the Nebraskan was about 48 miles from Fastnet when a terrific explosion occurred. Hatches were burst open by the shock and iron work twisted. The lower hold filled up with water. The crew took to the boats, the message says, but later returned to the ship. Admiralty vessels answered a wireless call for help.

Ambassador Page reported he was sending a naval attaché to Liverpool to examine the Nebraskan.

As soon as the dispatches were received at the State Department they were forwarded to the White House and immediately placed before the president. As they did not make it certain whether the steamer had been hit by a mine or a torpedo they left unanswered the principal point that the president and his advisers want made clear. They expect further reports from the naval attaché. Pending receipt of clearer explanations no action will be taken.

New York, May 27.—The American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, owners of the American steamer Nebraskan, damaged by a mine or torpedo off Fastnet last Tuesday, received advices today that the vessel was due to reach Liverpool tonight. Fuller details of the incident are expected when the Nebraskan reaches Liverpool.

GREAT STORMS AND FLOODS CLAIM TOLL IN SOUTHWEST

By Associated Press. Fort Smith, Ark., May 27.—Six persons are reported dead as a result of the storm which swept western Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma, last night and early today.

Reports reaching here from Antlers, Okla., assert that more than 60 persons were injured at Talihina, where four were killed.

Wire and rail communication in the stricken district is almost impossible and some estimates place the loss of life at a larger figure. Property damage is heavy and may reach more than $1,000,000.

Fears of serious floods are increasing. The Arkansas river here today had reached 25 feet, 3 feet above flood stage, and one of its tributaries was a raging torrent.

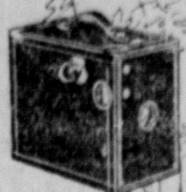

A cloudburst was reported at Poteau, Okla., but the extent of the damage has not been learned.

Reports of distress have been received from Stigler, Okla., which was struck by a tornado last Saturday.

Residents of Little Rock today began preparations to combat the flood of the Arkansas river. A gas famine has aggravated the situation there.

FIVE PER CENT CLAUSE TARIFF ACT IS UPHOLD

Washington, May 27.—The so called 5 per cent clause of the tariff law, granting a reduction of duties to that amount of goods imported in American ships, was sustained by the customs court, which held also that the 5 per cent rebate must be granted on all goods imported in ships of those countries with which the United States has favored nation treaties. As such treaties exist with the principal countries of the world, the effect of the decision is practically to reduce the customs revenue by 5 per cent. If the decision is sustained by the supreme court of the United States, to which it will be appealed, approximately $15,000,000 in duties already collected must be refunded.

Government officials realize that the decision may have a profound effect upon the fiscal policy of the United States. At present the actual working balance in the treasury is under $15,000,000, though possibly $40,000,000 is available to be added to this if necessary. With an announced deficit in the postal revenues and no increase in internal revenue or customs receipts now in sight, talk of the necessity for an issue of Panama canal bonds was revived, in view of the prospect of reduced customs revenues and the necessity of refunding millions already collected. The payment of some $80,000,000 into the treasury due from the income tax, however, is counted on to delay any such emergency for several months.

GALLAGHER BILL SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Columbus, May 27.—The Gallagher bill, which amends the Green anti-coal screen law so as to permit Ohio miners and operators to contract as to the method of mining and weighing, has been signed by Governor Willis.

In a lengthy statement setting forth his reasons for signing the measure the governor asserts that he "utterly disapproves" some of the arguments used in securing the bill's passage, but, after painstaking consideration of all questions involved, he had decided to sign it. He declared that he had approached the proposition of signing or vetoing the measure rather from the viewpoint of the miner than from that of the operator.

The governor declared that by the measure's becoming law the right to contract goes on trial so far as the relations of the miners and operators are concerned and that it is incumbent upon the advocates of the measure, the operators, to demonstrate the correctness of their views. If under the new law the miners are unable to agree on new contracts when the present ones expire, he declares, the idea of the right of contract would receive a serious blow, in the estimation of the public, and he would be inclined to recommend new legislation on the subject at the next regular session of the legislature, or a special session. The governor practically puts it up to the operators to demonstrate the soundness of their contention that they should be given the right to contract.

Legislature Reconvenes.

Though the legislature reconvened at 9 o'clock this morning for one day to finish up the business of the session, it is not expected that the work will be anything near completion by the time the clock strikes at mid night. Some solons are of the opinion that pending legislation may take them over into next week and that at the very best it will not be completed before Saturday night.

One feature of the closing session will be the submission of the report of the bank department probe committee, which was very active for several weeks during the early part of the session delving into the activities of former State Bank Superintendent Emory Lattanner. The report severely criticizes Mr. Lattanner in his conduct of the department. It declares appointments were made through political influence rather than because of efficiency. It charges extravagant fees were paid liquidating agents and attorneys employed in looking after the affairs of banks in process of liquidation. It also charges that salaries and money were paid from funds of banks in liquidation before approval of the courts had been given.

The report charges that Mr. Lattanner forced banks into liquidation without giving them an opportunity of taking advantage of credit which had been offered by other banks or by individuals who were responsible. The report was drafted by Henry S. Ballard, first assistant attorney general, who looked after the legal end of the committee's work and did most of the examining of witnesses. It is said that the committee may be continued after adjournment to make further investigations.

Conference Reports.

The committee having in charge the Whitacre bill, providing for one day's rest in seven for workmen in all industries, has worked out an agreement. Many of the exemptions inserted by the senate have been eliminated and the measure is in almost the same form as passed by the house, providing for only a few exemptions.

Conference committees worked diligently in preparing reports on bills which had been sent to them. All committees apparently had agreed upon amendments, excepting the one having in charge the Sprague congressional gerrymander. Governor Willis signed a host of measures, including the Fleming students' voting bill; the Hulsitt measure consolidating the national and state tickets; the Deaton bill, providing for the prevention of blindness in the new-born; the Winans bank bill; the Moore bill, exempting the state registrar of vital statistics from civil service, and the Besaw measure, strengthening the moving picture censor law.

OHIO BRIEFS

Evangelical Lutherans Meet.

Akron, O., May 27.—Two hundred and eighty delegates responded to roll-call at the opening session of the forty-seventh biennial convention of the general synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church. Professor G. A. Singmaster of the Gettysburg Theological seminary was elected president. It was decided to hold a centennial celebration in 1921 to mark the birth of the general synod.

Wilson and Willis to Speak.

Columbus, O., May 27.—Governor Willis and President Wilson will speak from the same platform next Monday. They will make Memorial Day addresses at Arlington, near Washington. The governor has been at work on the preparation of his address for several days and is now putting the finishing touches to it. He will leave for Arlington Saturday or Sunday.

Go Through Open Draw.

Toledo, May 27.—Two men were drowned and another had a narrow escape from the same fate when an automobile containing the three passengers ran into an open bridge over the Maumee river. P. J. Mattis, thirty-five, a liquor salesman of Pittsburgh, and Frank Westfall, forty-five, one of the license commissioners of this county, lost their lives.

Killed by Detective.

Cleveland, May 27.—Emil Koepf, twenty-four, was shot and instantly killed by Detective William T. Hackett when Hackett tried to serve a warrant charging Koepf with an assault on his landlady, Miss Anna Case. In his report to Inspector Saattuck, Hackett says he shot after Koepf made a move as though to draw a revolver.

CRIPPLED LINER LIMPS INTO HARBOR

New York, May 27.—The Holland-American steamer Ryndam, bound from this port for Rotterdam with eighty passengers and a million dollar cargo, and which was in collision with the little Norwegian freighter Joseph J. Cuneo, arrived here in crippled condition and will go into drydock for repairs.

The story of the collision as told by one of the passengers gives credit to the skipper, officers and stewards of the Ryndam for calming the passengers. Life belts were put on by most of the passengers. The Cuneo stood by the liner and the wireless operators of both ships exchanged messages about their respective wounds. The sea was smooth and life boats were lowered from the Ryndam without mishap after the Cuneo skipper and Captain Van Der Heuvel had arranged for the transfer.

Immediately following the collision a wireless message from the Ryndam reached the Atlantic battleship fleet, maneuvering off the New England coast. It was a race for honor and glory between the Louisiana, Kansas, South Carolina, Texas and Michigan. The South Carolina won. Captain Russell of the South Carolina transferred the passengers and sixty of the Ryndam's crew from the Cuneo to the battleship. Captain Van Der Heuvel of the Ryndam had found out by this time that he could make port without risking his ship, and he proceeded. The Texas and the South Carolina conveyed the liner to this port.

FORMER GOVERNOR PREDICTS NEW ERA

Kansas City, May 27.—Myron T. Herrick, former governor of Ohio and former United States ambassador to France, addressing a Republican gathering, predicted a new era in American politics which will place politics on a higher and more intellectual plane. "In the new era," he said, "the business man will put personality into politics; he, not his money, will measure his influence."

How Gold Dust actually works for you

The active principle of Gold Dust is a valuable antiseptic cleansing agent.

It actually works. It gets into the corners and crevices where fingers and washcloths can't reach. It permeates and dissolves dirt, grease and grime everywhere and it cleans and brightens everything.

Gold Dust does all this—does this actual work—because it is made for that purpose.

Millions of women all over the country use Gold Dust three times a day in washing dishes. They use it also for scrubbing floors, washing windows, etc.

But they do not realize all the uses of Gold Dust. Gold Dust is the only washing and cleaning powder needed in any home.

Gold Dust cleans metal work, nickel, enameled ware, etc., without scratching or marring the surface—leaving it sanitariously clean, bright and new-looking.

The use of Gold Dust is an economy. There can be no waste when you use the exact small quantity required for each specific purpose. It is at once taken up by hot or cold water, forming the perfect cleansing solution.

No soap or other cleansing help is needed. Gold Dust does it all, and Gold Dust does its work far better than anything else can.

Use Gold Dust not only for washing dishes, but for washing bathtubs and bathroom fixtures, cleaning oil mops, cleaning and freshening linoleum and oilcloth, cleaning and brightening pots, pans and cooking utensils, giving luster to glassware—for every cleaning and brightening purpose.

Gold Dust is as inexpensive as it is indispensable.

WOMAN IS ACCUSED OF KILLING MOTHER

Philadelphia, May 27.—Miss Bertha Kreider, forty-seven, is under arrest on suspicion of having hastened the death of her mother, Mrs. Emmanuel Kreider, seventy-three, at the Episcopal hospital. Mrs. Kreider had been suffering from senility and also a broken leg. The hospital authorities reported to the coroner's office that the patient had died of chloroform poisoning, and Miss Kreider's arrest was ordered. The police believe that grief over her mother's condition unhinged the daughter's mind.

Kindergarten Census. There are in the United States approximately 4,000,000 children between the ages of four and six, which is ordinarily considered the kindergarten age, says a report of the federal commissioner of education. Only about 300,000 of these children are enrolled in public and private kindergartens and probably not more than 3,000 in Montessori schools.

Another Roosevelt Victory

Mr. Barnes has lost out completely in his famous libel case against Colonel Roosevelt. Mr. Barnes asked to recover fifty thousand dollars from Colonel Roosevelt and the jury responded to his appeal by allowing him to pay the costs of the case. The Court costs and other direct expense totaled about thirty thousand dollars, making a net loss to Mr. Barnes—plusing what he asked for with what he must pay as costs—about eighty thousand dollars.

In addition to that Mr. Barnes is compelled to see his political enemy triumph over him in a court of law and endure the humiliation which must go with an adverse verdict.

The strenuous ex-president has again emerged victorious from an unusual contest.

Colonel Roosevelt has demonstrated his ability to get in and fight his way out of more unexpected altercations than any man in public life.

A political boss—such as Barnes now stands adjudged of being—hasn't very much chance to win over Colonel Roosevelt in a finish fight before the average American jury.

The verdict is proof that while the Colonel's disregard for legal formalities may be obnoxious to the technical lawyer of the Ivins kind, he nevertheless has the power to convince the jurors.

The Colonel is, of course, "delighted" and submitted to being photographed with the jurors who vindicated him.

The End of the Road

When J. Edward Addicks was sent to jail in New York a few days ago because he did not pay a judgment entered against him for fifteen thousand dollars "finis" was written to a remarkable career.

Addicks was one of the most luxuriant of a type of frenzied financiers, which the hot house financial conditions existing a few years ago, produced. His particular specialty was combining gas companies and gas properties, increasing the stock and securities and unloading them at big sums.

So proficient did Addicks become in his specialty and so successful was he in piling up huge sums of money in his coffers as a result of his exploitations of gas properties that he became known generally as "Gas" Addicks.

Addicks spent millions in lavish display and in politics. His one ambition politically was to go to the United States Senate and he came very near buying his way in but he failed.

With the change in political and financial conditions Addicks' star began to fade. The ill gotten millions his political boosters did not obtain from him on false pretenses, he lavished in entertaining "fair weather" friends and now Addicks is broke and in jail for debt.

A millionaire a few years ago with friends and influence and a pauper now with his friends gone.

Addicks is to be pitied as a matter of course but his crimes against society, against the common people of the land and his conspiracy to debase the right of franchise justifies the punishment he is now receiving.

It's another case of "come easy and go easy" and in Addicks' case it did go easy and go rapidly.

The road Addicks traveled has but one end.

These Days of Showers

The people who live in the rural districts understand the great values which these prolonged "spells" of wet weather store away in the earth and consequently, there is not much likelihood of them becoming impatient because we are not having enjoyable days.

The people in the cities who must remain housed up while the rainy weather continues are inclined to think we have had plenty of rain long before such a thought is justified by fact.

The rainfall in this section is still very materially short of the average. We have enjoyed an unusually dry winter and spring and, in order that the underground streams and reservoirs may be filled before the dry hot summer compels the vegetation to obtain moisture from below, nature is sending rain and plenty of it.

During the long hot days of August and September experience has taught us that the clear bright sky is not overcast with storm clouds often enough to provide the needed showers. It is then that the reserve supply we are now receiving and which the earth is storing away beneath the surface becomes of unestimable value.

The urban folks who sigh for dry roads and sunshine in order that they may get out of the cities and towns into the open country should be patient. They should be content with the thought that just this kind of weather is what makes the beautiful open country and the growing crops possible and so enjoyable in the hot season to come when the need to get away from the city is greater than it is now.

Poetry For Today

MY SON.

I that had yearned for youth, my own, again,
 And mourned the wasted hours of younger days,
 I that had sighed for spring, for summer, when
 The snows of Winter covered all my ways—
 I that had prayed for years, for only one,
 Have found that prayer answered in my son.

He is myself again, with hopes of old.
 With old temptations and with old desires;
 He is myself again—the clay to mold
 Into the man, and all the man aspires,
 Who says that youth returns to us no more?
 He is as I was in the days of yore.

In my own days, in my own days of youth,
 Ah, how I wished a comrade and a friend!
 To help me keep the quiet path of truth
 And through temptation my own feet attend.

So shall I journey onward by his side,
 His father—yea, his comrade and his guide.

I that have failed shall shape success in him,
 I that have wandered point the proper path.

A signal when the signal lights are dim,
 A roof to fend him from the storms of wrath—
 So we shall journey upward, I and he,
 And he shall be the man I meant to be.

—American Lumberman.

9 OF FRENCH CREW DROWN

Ponta Delgada, Azores, May 27.—The French bark Bidat, from Bayonne, France, to Glasgow with a cargo of mineral, went ashore on Flores island, 230 miles west of here. Nine of the crew were lost. Her captain and thirteen other members of the crew succeeded in escaping. The vessel and the cargo are a total loss.

Luke McLuke Says

There isn't anything in the world nicer than a pretty girl who can manufacture a blush without digging into her hand bag for the rouge.

The reason why a woman wears her hats too big is because she wears her shoes too small.

The reason why more women do not look like kitchen mechanics out for a holiday is not because they use good taste in dressing. It is because they can't afford to buy loud clothes.

A year after her marriage the most interesting man in the world to a woman is the man she could have married and didn't.

The men who think they know it all are only outnumbered by the men who think they are the hardest worked people in the world.

An insurance man's idea of a cinch would be to have a live insurance company in which a lot of tads like Methuselah had taken out ordinary policies when they were about twenty years old.

If a girl wants you badly enough she can twist a remark about the weather into a proposal.

Some lads go out and borrow trouble so they will be able to announce that trouble drove them to drink.

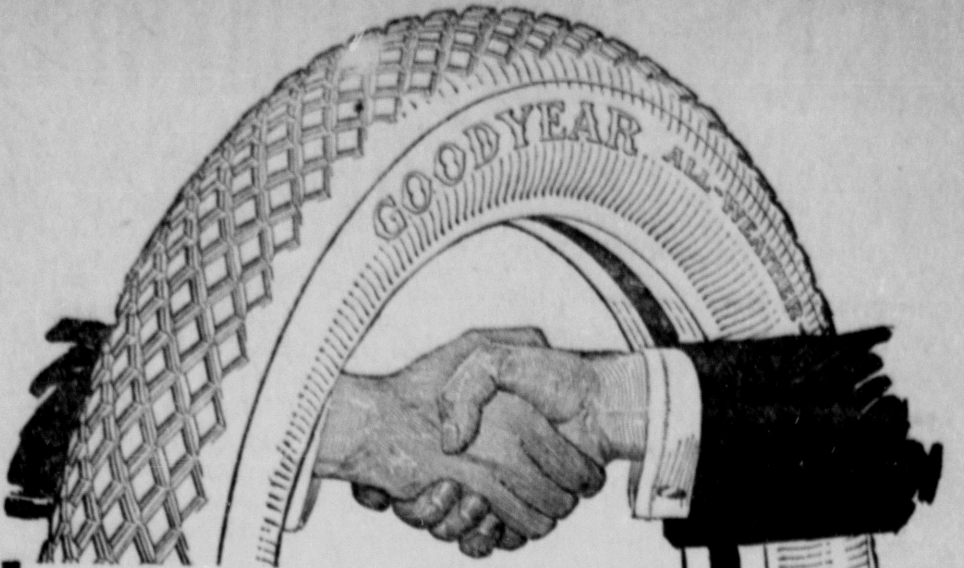

Before he gets her she is one girl in a million. After he gets her he wishes he had taken a chance with the other 999,999.

Any old time a man stops a woman on the street and doesn't tip his hat to her and doesn't make an idiot out of himself trying to make an impression on her you can bet that woman is his wife.

Women's shoes are supposed to be larger than the feet that wear them. We said they are supposed to be.

It doesn't do a woman much good to keep her husband's old love letters and read them to him ten years after they are married. They only help to convince friend husband that he was insane when he married her.

The lad who is wearing a celluloid collar often kicks because some other man is wearing a suit that smells of moth balls.

The Co-operative Tire

Goodyear has always built co-operative tires. Every saving has gone to the user. The more men bought the better we built them, and the lower we sold them.

That is why Goodyear has held top place, outselling any other tire.

3 Reductions

Note that in two years we made three big price reductions. The last—on February 1st—brought the total to 45 per cent.

Yet in costly ways these tires have been bettered. In not one iota were they ever skimped.

Our Fortified Tire is still "On-Air" cured to save blow-outs. Yet that one extra cost is $450,000 yearly.

It still has our No-Rim-Cut feature. It has in each base 126 braided piano wires to make the tire secure. It embodies hundreds of rubber rivets, formed to combat loose treads.

Our All-Weather tread is still double-thick. It still has the sharp, tough, resistless grips.

Those extras—all exclusive to Goodyear—are all retained, despite our price reductions. And we still spend $100,000 yearly to discover new ways to better them.

Your Ally

In all these ways, Goodyear is your ally. You do injustice to yourself when you fail to secure this advantage. Never in tire history was such value given as you get in Goodyear tires today.

No smaller makers can ever give so much.

Any dealer will supply you. (2327)

DR. C. W. BLODGETT DELIVERS ELOQUENT MEMORIAL ADDRESS

In bringing Rev. Charles W. Blodgett from Cincinnati to deliver an address at the annual Epworth League Memorial, Wednesday night, the patriotic members of the league crowned all past successes and not only paid a compliment to the G. A. R. but gave an opportunity to the local public to hear one of the most eloquent speakers on the lecture platform.

Grace church was filled, the auditorium largely reserved for the G. A. R. Posts and auxiliary organizations and the enthusiastic reception given to Col. Blodgett was in itself a heart-some tribute.

The handsome church was elaborately decorated in flags, bunting, red and white flowers.

The musical part of the program was worthy of the speaker. Mrs. Frank Blessing played the organ prelude as the orders marched in and stood to sing "America."

"Marching Through Georgia" was splendidly sung by a quartet. Mrs. Arthur Burgett, Miss Jessie Leavell, Messrs R. R. Kibler and Rankin Paul, and followed by an exquisite violin interpretation of "Adoration"—Borowsky, by Mr. Kneisley, Miss Mable Briggs accompanist.

Miss Jessie Leavell sang the soldier's favorite, "Annie Laurie," very sweetly, with violin obligato by Mr. Kneisley.

Rev. Blodgett held the large audience in spellbound attention. Always a wonderful speaker, he was at his best and delivered an entirely new speech, introducing phases of patriotism suggested by the present war.

Very beautifully he presented a dream of the old soldier throughout eternity in the realm of the golden gates and with much tenderness referred to the faces of prominent local G. A. R. men he missed from the audience here, but hoped to see in the eternal day.

After touching upon scenes and reminiscences of the war with burning eloquence, Rev. Blodgett entered upon present national issues.

He brought out forcefully the thought that God had in mind at the time of the civil war, the unification of this people into the great nation it now is, able to act as peace-maker for the whole world. If it had been a divided country its present greatness could never have been attained. The speaker said, "We can afford to have our pride humbled a little to hold this place among the nations of the earth in the present crisis."

Rev. Blodgett said that America would have worse enemies to fight in future years than ever in the past and that it was important that our country produce courageous people to fight such menaces as socialism and intemperance.

Mrs. Blessing played national airs as the veterans left the church.

The Epworth League committee in charge included Misses Luella Riley, Gilbert Adams and Geo. Bryan.

NEW EPISCOPALIAN CHURCH TO BE ERECTED ON MARKET

St. Andrew's Episcopal Church of this city has leased the Burnett property on Market street, between Main and Hinde streets, the site of the old opera house, for the erection of a church building. Plans of the proposed building have been completed for some time, and the site now being selected, work will be begun on the foundation immediately.

The plans selected call for a simple, one story building, fifty-seven feet long by twenty-seven wide, with a vestibule entrance six feet by six feet. The main auditorium, twenty-seven feet wide by forty-eight long will seat one hundred and fifty people. A choir room is provided at the rear of the building with lockers to accommodate the vested choir.

St. Andrew's church was organized in Washington C. H. in 1911 by Archdeacon Cooke, of Dayton, under the direction of Bishop Boyd Vincent. During the three years and a half of its existence it has had a slow but steady growth, and its prospects are bright for a future of large usefulness to the community.

One year ago the church moved from its home in the G. A. R. Hall to its present quarters on the ground floor of the new Y. M. C. A. Annex. This year the trustees determined that the time was ripe for the organization to have a home of its own, and after a thorough canvass of the situation the site of the old opera house was selected for the new church building.

JURY WHEEL READY FOR HEAVY ATTACKS

Jury Commissioners Geo. Inskeep and W. R. Dalbey, Thursday afternoon completed the work of replenishing the jury wheel, adding some 500 names and bringing the list of prospective jurors up to probably the largest number in the history of the county.

The great number of new names added is due to the expected heavy demands in the two murder cases which come up within a short time.

BUSINESS HOUSES TO CLOSE MONDAY

In accordance with the general observance of Monday, a legal holiday, as Decoration Day, a general closing of banks, mercantile establishments and grocery stores is announced for that day.

Definite announcement of the general closing was made Thursday, and as a result the entire day will be observed as a day upon which to pay tribute to the dead and to display the patriotic spirit of true American citizens.

It is urged that every citizen in Washington and Fayette county fling Old Glory to the breeze early Monday morning and let the flags remain throughout the day.

With half the world at war the American flag should now mean more to Americans than ever before.

FLOWERS WANTED FOR DECORATION

The Sons of Veterans respectfully call on the people of Washington to furnish flowers for the decoration of the graves of our soldier dead, and urge that the flowers be made ready early Monday morning next.

School children will call at the homes of Washington citizens Monday morning and will at once take all flowers to the Central school building for preparation.

Let everybody furnish as many flowers as possible and thereby assist in making our Decoration Day tribute as impressive as we can.

SHIPPING BAN AGAIN ON XENIA

The placing of an embargo on live stock shipments from Xenia to Pittsburg has given rise to the belief that traces of foot and mouth disease have been discovered among animals shipped from that point, and the people of Greene county are anxiously awaiting full details.

Xenia is the inspection center for cars in operation on the Cincinnati and Indianapolis divisions of the Pennsylvania Railroad. A special gang of workmen is employed constantly in cleaning and disinfecting cars. Inspectors from headquarters in Dayton visit the Xenia yards after cars have been cleaned and place their card of inspection on the car.

The cause for the replacing of the ban on shipments was not made known in the message to the Xenia officials.

LOCAL CITIZENS INSPECT DAYTON CLUSTER LIGHTS

MAYOR, CITY OFFICIALS AND PROMINENT BUSINESS MEN IN PARTY — VISIT DAYTON POWER PLANT AND RECEIVE INFORMATION WITH REGARD TO CLUSTER LIGHTING — DAYTON MEN INDICATE LIKELIHOOD OF THEIR ENTERING INTO COMPETITION FOR LOCAL LIGHTING FRANCHISE.

Five auto loads of local city officials and business men comprised a party which Wednesday made a trip to Dayton with the purpose of looking over the system of cluster lighting so extensively employed in that city. The trip was highly successful and now that the local men have seen the lighting systems of both London and Dayton they feel that they have been greatly aided toward a proper choice of those to be installed here.

The party included several members of the city council, Mayor Coffey, Service Director Gerstner and City Solicitor Gregg. The autos, together, left here at promptly four o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Arriving in Dayton at about 7 o'clock the local party first spent some time driving about the principal streets of the Gem City where the cluster lights are used. Later the members of the party visited the plant of the Dayton Light and Power Company.

Here they were received by the assistant general manager, Mr. A. H. Hutchings, and General Commercial Agent T. F. Kelley, of the company, who discussed with them the cost of maintenance of cluster lights, system of installation, size of lights, etc. The local men were told that the expense of the cluster lights was slightly more than of the arc system, but many times as effective, both in lighting and in beautifying streets.

An interesting feature of this meeting was an expression on the part of the Dayton men that their plant would probably enter into the competitive bidding when the matter of a contract for supplying city light comes up in Washington next month.

After the meeting, which ended about 10:30 o'clock, the local party departed for home.

Those in the party were Mayor Chas. F. Coffey, City Solicitor Pope Gregg, City Service Director Chas. Gerstner, Councilmen Al Melvin, Wm. Sheets, Pete Tracey, Milt Tracey, Clark Rowe, Messrs C. Howard Griffin, Frank Chaffin, Martin Cox, Ray Maddox, R. G. Hess, Charles Johnson, Frank Johnson, W. C. Slagle, Dr. Roy Brown and Dr. Orme Brown.

THE CORNCOB PIPE.

At Times It's Risky, and It Doesn't Go Well With a Silk Hat.

The corncob pipe is a democratic institution. One evidence of the fact that this country is not so democratic as foreigners believe is that, according to the code of an American gentleman, the corncob pipe must not be smoked while wearing a silk hat. On the other hand, it may be for this reason that Americans so seldom affect the silk hat.

But some men find difficulty in adapting themselves to the "Missouri meerschaum." They contend that the first puff from a new corncob pipe is like a breath from the nether regions. This aversion arises from the circumstance that, like a sponge, a new cob pipe should be dipped in water before it is used. After the first pipeful of tobacco has been smoked it will be found that a liberal coat of ashes has attached itself to the walls of the pipe, rendering it thereafter much less likely to burn the tongue than if it were initiated without the formality of baptism.

There is one place, however, where the cob pipe is distinctly dangerous, and that is in the mouth of a beginner in the mellow art of smoking. Mothers who dread the day when their sons shall feel obliged to assert their entrance into man's estate by acquiring a taste of tobacco will do well to buy a corncob pipe and leave it carelessly about the house. In time it will be missed. So will the boy's appetite. But the appetite will come back.—Indianapolis News.

DELIVERS ADDRESS AT JEFFERSONVILLE

Rev. F. E. Ross delivered a fine address on the subject "Education and Life," at the reception tendered to the graduates of the Jeffersonville High school by the Epworth League of Jeffersonville, at the M. E. church of that city Wednesday night.

Good music and readings were included in the program, after which came refreshments and a social hour. The guests were confined to the graduates and their parents, the Board of Education and the teachers.

In Social Circles

Miss Gardner, Miss Edith Gardner and Mrs. W. B. Rodgers added a particularly charming affair to the social season in their reception of Wednesday afternoon.

Not in the environment of Washington is there a home which lends itself more perfectly to generous entertaining than the beautiful old homestead, with its surrounding sweep of lawn and its immense rooms and wide halls. It was a most attractive, the velvet lawn and the shrubbery the brighter for the morning's sun, and indoors a wealth of spring flowers transforming the rooms into a bower of bloom.

The atmosphere radiated hospitality, over a hundred guests, in charming groups, enjoying the cordial attentions of the hostesses and their attendants, and lingering beyond the usual hours.

The dining room was exceptionally attractive, its handsome circular table supporting a superb center arrangement of yellow and white snapdragons spraying in artistic arrangement to the outside edges.

A group of pretty young girls were in attendance here and after the serving of an elaborate collation, many effective spring toilettes added new tints to the bright hues of flowers throughout the rooms.

Miss Gardner was wearing a becoming gown of mode flowered silk, with relief of lace.

Miss Edith Gardner's gown was of white silk in white and black, with trimmings of cherry velvet.

Mrs. Rodgers wore a pretty gown of green silk, with garniture of lace.

Assisting in the parlors were Mesdames D. S. Craig, Joseph H. Harper, George H. Hitchcock, Fred West, Misses Minnie Light, Bess B. Cleveland, Mary Elizabeth Johnson, and in the dining room, Misses Ada Woodward, Dorothy Rodgers, Gretchen Willis, Ruth Reid, Edith Worthington, Kathleen Davis.

Master Tom Rodgers ushered at the door. Miss Margaret Hamilton, of Orlando, Fla., was a guest.

The Guild Kensington, entertained at the spacious home of Mrs. W. R. Smith, proved a most pleasurable affair of Wednesday afternoon.

The assisting hostesses were Mesdames Joseph Kimball, Roscoe Baughn, Wert Baughn, P. O. Daughters, J. D. Post and Willis Lansinger.

Mrs. Harry Daughters of Columbus was an out of town guest.

The guild is planning for a series of entertainments.

The B. Y. P. U. social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Snider, Wednesday night, was thoroughly enjoyed by fifty young people.

Mr. and Mrs. Snider extended freely the hospitality of their home and everything contributed to a good time.

A short musical program included piano solos by Mary Elizabeth Snider and Katharine Snider and vocal solos by Rev. A. W. West and Mrs. Walter McLean.

Roses and peonies scented the rooms and tempting refreshments were served.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

Dr. Loring Brock successfully operated on Milton Hegler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orris Hegler, for adenoids and tonsils Thursday morning.

Mrs. Jacob Stoltz and daughter Alice were shopping visitors here today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Allen attended the funeral of Mrs. Ed Allen at Westmaster Wednesday.

Mrs. N. S. Barnett went to Columbus Thursday morning to visit her sister, Mrs. T. F. Kinnear.

Mr. and Mrs. George Murray and daughter, of Austin, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Hopkins and Mrs. Edwards, for the commencement night.

Mrs. Lon Mark and Mrs. P. J. Mark went to Sabina, Thursday, to the guests of Mrs. Dan Mark.

Mrs. W. A. Stewart, who was called to Bloomingburg some weeks ago by the illness and subsequent death of her mother, Mrs. M. J. Eggleston, returned to her home in Olympia, Wash.

Mr. Harry Daughters came down from Columbus Thursday afternoon to join his wife and baby at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Looftborow, of Columbus, are the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Harry Fitzgerald, and family for the commencement.

Mrs. Virginia Willis has returned from an extended visit with relatives in Orlando, Fla. Miss Margaret Hamilton, of Orlando, accompanied her home, and is the guest of Mrs. Willis and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hopkins.

Miss Florence King, of the 1915 class, has as her guests Mrs. J. R. Conner, Mr. Fred Conner and Miss Corinne Conner, for commencement.

Dr. R. M. Hughey was called to Bainbridge Wednesday night by the serious illness of his brother, Mr. Revello Hughey. Mr. Hughey's condition is improved today.

Washington friends will regret to learn that Mrs. Willard Barnett underwent an operation for appendicitis at her home in Shawnee, Okla., the first of the week. Mr. Earl Barnett was apprised of Mrs. Barnett's serious condition Thursday morning and the fact that no further word has been received is encouraging.

Washington friends will be interested to learn of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Morrison Ball (nee Helen Steece) of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Robert McCoy, of Bloomingburg, is the guest of Mrs. James Hays to attend the commencement.

Mrs. Frank Michaels and daughter Jean went to Dayton Thursday to visit Mrs. D. W. Martin.

Miss Iris Thompson, one of the 1915 class graduates, is entertaining Mrs. Edith Self, of Mt. Sterling and Mrs. Douglass Tootle, of Chillicothe, for the commencement.

CHAMPIONS QUALIFYING

Columbus, May 27.—Forty-eight of the county champions out of a total of eighty-eight expected have been formally "entered" for the state spelling championship contest to be held in this city June 4. They were listed at the offices of the state agricultural commission, under whose auspices the contest will be held. Some of the counties have not yet held their contests to determine who shall represent them in the state contest, and others have not reported their winners.

BATTLESHIP SUNK BY A SUBMARINE

London, May 27.—The British battleship Triumph has been torpedoed and sunk in the Dardanelles. A majority of the crew were saved. This announcement was made by the admiralty through the official press bureau.

"While operating," says the admiralty announcement, "in support of the Australian and New Zealand troops on the Gallipoli peninsula, H.
M. S. Triumph, Captain Maurice Fitz-maurice, was torpedoed by a submarine and sank shortly afterwards. A majority of the officers and men are reported to have been saved, including the captain and commander. The submarine which fired the torpedo was chased by destroyers and patrolling craft, but finally managed to get away."

The Triumph is the fourth great British battleship to be lost in the bombardment of the Turkish forts at the Dardanelles. The French have lost one battleship, the Bouvet, which makes a total of five first class warships sent to the bottom since the attempt to clear the way to Constantinople began, in addition to the loss of at least three submarines and the serious damage of several other battleships, cruisers, destroyers and transports.

Fifth to Be Blown Up.

The first serious loss occurred on March 19, when the Ocean and the Irresistible, British battleships, and the Bouvet, French, struck floating mines as they were proceeding toward the Narrows and were sunk with great loss of life. The Bouvet went down in less than three minutes, more than 500 of her crew being killed outright by the explosion or drowned later.

Only two weeks ago, on May 13, an other British battleship, the Goliath, was torpedoed in the straits. She sank with such rapidity that only a few of her crew could be saved, some 500 men and officers being killed or drowned.

So the Triumph is the second victim of Turkish submarines. The two losses through this medium having occurred within such a short time of each other may be taken to indicate that the Turkish fleet has been strengthened by the addition, undoubtedly from Germany, of submarine craft, a fact which will hereafter make the position of the attacking fleet far more hazardous in the future than it has been in the past.

A Constantinople dispatch says that the Triumph was sunk by a single torpedo and that she disappeared in seven minutes.

The Triumph was a vessel of 11,985 tons and of 12,500 horsepower. Her crew of officers and men in times of peace numbered about 700 men.

TAFT AND HARDING PRINCIPAL TALKERS

New York, May 27.—Ex-President
Taft was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the twentieth annual banquet of the National Association of Manufacturers at the Waldorf. At this dinner, closing the two days' sessions of the manufacturers, ex-President Taft and Warren G. Harding, senator-elect from Ohio, deplored the effect legislative incompetency and selfish political interests have had in enacting legislation putting harmful and unnatural restraints upon business.

EMANUEL'S MEN MAKE A SWEEP-ING ADVANCE

Rome, May 27.—Italian troops are warming through the mountain passes on both sides of the Trentino salient, driving before them the Austrian garrisons of the forts guarding all the entrances to Tyrol, the Austrians in only a few cases offering resistance. The offensive on the Friauli and Carniola fronts, which was begun successfully Tuesday, continues, and heavy artillery duels with the Austrian batteries posted on the heights of the Isonzo are reported.

for the front, and his arrival at Verona coincided with a general advance of the Italian forces gathered there up the valley of the Adige, across the Trentino frontier into southern Tyrol.
This army occupied Monte Pasubio,
7,300 feet high, and the chain of hills ending in Monte Baldo, 4,000 feet high, crowned by an Austrian fort which was constructed since the opening of the great war, as well as the principal defile on the Agno and Ledra rivers.
The objective of this movement is evidently Rovereto, strongly fortified camp on the Adige, about twelve miles south of Trent, capital of Trentino.

At the same time Italian forces entered Tyrol by the Tonale pass, occupying Forcellina and Montozzo, while a third division proceeded up the Val Giudicaria, the same route followed by Garibaldi in 1866, taking Ponte di Caffaro in its thrust toward Riva, at the head of Lake Garda, which is connected by railroad with Rovereto.

All Passes Occupied.

All the passes leading through the Carnic Alps have been occupied. The object of the operations in this region, which is directly north of Udine, capital of Italian Friuli, is apparently to cut the Villach-Lienz-Bruneck-Franzen-feste railroad, which is the only line leading from Austria directly into southern Tyrol.

It is not known what Italian troops, nor how many, are engaged in these drives into the enemy's territory, but it is estimated that they number about 300,000 men on the Carniola and Friauli fronts alone. The Carniola army has organized the heights between the Isonzo and Judrio and are holding them against heavy artillery attacks from the batteries near Tolmein, at the junction of the Isonzo and the Idria. It is expected that the invaders will soon be in contact with the main defending forces of Germans and Austrians.

Reports have been received here that a large German army is on its way from Innsbruck, capital of Tyrol, down the valley of the Adige to Trent and Rovereto, probably, with the object of defending those towns and at the same time threatening an advance on the Italian base at Verona.
This Italian position is an exposed one, and the railroad from Verona runs direct to Brescia, where there is an important small arms factory.

Submarine Flotilla Will Soon

Reserve Ships.

By FREDERICK R. TOOMBS.

THE United States navy has been described by some critics as being inefficient and unready for real war, but undoubtedly the calamity howlers have not taken the trouble to ascertain the actual facts in regard to it. Uncle Sam's navy is both ready and efficient and is a fighting arm of impressive proportions.

The navy has now in active service, in full commission, 225 vessels of all descriptions, from super-Dreadnoughts—ships of the first line—to fuel carriers and hospital and supply craft. The list of vessels in reserve, ready

Building Seventy-seven New Sea Fighters.

Under construction we have no less than seventy-seven fighting craft, classified as follows:

Nine Dreadnoughts, twenty-three destroyers, thirty-eight submarines and seven auxiliaries.

Surely this array of men-of-war in commission, in reserve and in construction is no uncertain indication that the United States will at all times be able to make her vast power strongly felt on the seas wherever the necessity may arise.

At present the personnel of the navy comprises 4,355 officers and about 60,000 enlisted men. And the number of officers and men is constantly on the increase.

The major part of the vessels in active service are divided into three general divisions—the Atlantic fleet, the Pacific fleet and the Asiatic fleet. Admiral Frank F. Fletcher is commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, and in the Pacific Admiral Thomas B. Howard is the chief commander. The chief of Admiral Fletcher's staff is Captain Harry McL. P. Huse, and Lieutenant Commander Frederick L. Oliver is first aid to Admiral Howard and is also the fleet engineer.

The Dreadnought Wyoming, 20,000 tons displacement and carrying thirty-three guns, is Admiral Fletcher's flagship. Admiral Howard's flagship is the armored cruiser Colorado, eighteen guns and 13,680 tons displacement.

Admiral Walter C. Cowles, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, uses the cruiser Saratoga as his flagship. She carries fourteen guns and displaces 8,115 tons.

Destroyers and Submarines.

Each fleet has a strong complement of torpedo destroyers and submarines. The Atlantic fleet, much the strongest of the trio of divisions, is, of course, the most important, as it ranges in scope from Panama and Cuba to the northern boundary of Maine and protects the entire eastern seaboard of the country.

In the combined fleets are eight battleships of the first line, as follows: Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, New York, North Dakota, Texas, Utah and Wyoming.

Their list of second line battleships numbers seventeen, their armored cruisers six. They have torpedo destroyers to the number of thirty-three and thirty-eight submarines. In addition the fleets are supplied with gunboats, transports, converted yachts, tugs and vessels of special type, such as mine carriers and ammunition ships.

In commission in reserve are the battleships Alabama and the Maine; the armored cruisers San Diego, West Virginia and South Dakota; the cruisers Brooklyn, Charleston, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Chicago, Albany, Marblehead, Montgomery and Salem. Destroyers, monitors and gunboats are also in this class.

Out of commission temporarily are the battleships Indiana, Iowa and Massachusetts and several cruisers, destroyers and gunboats.

In a recent letter from Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, to President Garfield of Williams college, in regard to the progress of the navy in recent years, Mr. Daniels stated the following in part:

"Under the direction of Admiral Fletcher, upon plans evolved at the Naval War college and approved by the department, the fleet has been busied in tactics to try out its efficiency and readiness. All reports tell of the enthusiasm of officers and men in this practice and the splendid record made by the ships."

"Strenuous Practice."

"The spring practice followed close upon the heels of valuable maneuvers and tactics in October, November and December last. This was indeed strenuous practice, but it is the way the navy is kept fit and ready, and the new admiral in command of the fleet and the department planned such extensive evolutions because the only way that the navy can be always prepared is by practice, and practice, and then more practice."

"This simple statement of the operations of the fleet since October is one of the best answers I can give to your question as to the navy's preparedness. The necessity of keeping ships in Mexico last year denied Admiral Badger the opportunity for as long practice as he had wisely planned, but the sudden call for the expedition to Vera Cruz demanded and exacted unusual service, to which the fleet responded with an alacrity and readiness which amply justify the faith of the country that there exists today no more efficient institution than the United States navy."

"Some critics have said the efficiency of the fleet was reduced by reason of going to Vera Cruz. To our regret, certain maneuvers and target practice of value were necessarily omitted. The emergency experience, however, of a year of stress and strain was of far greater value in one important respect than the well planned routine, because it gave a demonstration of the readiness of the navy in every department, afloat and ashore, to meet an urgent call."

Its Flexibility.

"Its flexibility was shown in adjusting itself to entirely new and unexpected situations, as well as its remarkable adaptability in handling every problem presented to it."

"It must be conceded by all that the best school and preparation for war is war itself, and it was almost under this condition that our fleet acted in proceeding almost in a day to Mexican waters. The stay at Vera Cruz, however, did not prevent practice, for the ships, individually or in divisions, during a great part of the time held tactical maneuvers, torpedo proving practice and subcaliber drills in preparation for target practice."

"For many years officers have written and talked about the formation of advance base material and the practice of exercising landing parties of seamen and marines in the use of this important adjunct to naval warfare. Congress appropriated money for this important plan of campaign, but never until January of last year was the navy thus exercised."

"There had been plenty of talk, but not until January of last year was it undertaken. Then, under instructions from the department, Admiral Badger carried out a comprehensive exercise in which the professional advantages gained by officers and men were inestimable."

"Three months after this extensive practice had been given for the first time in our navy the same fleet and the same men were called upon to land at Vera Cruz, and in the taking of that city the navy carried out under fire what had been learned at Culebra."

$70,000,000 For the Navy.

"During the first two years of the Wilson administration upon my recommendation congress authorized the construction of five Dreadnoughts, to cost about $14,000,000 each. Stated in dollars, the Wilson administration in its first two years authorized $70,000,000 to be spent on the chief fighting force of the navy."

"As to submarines, these wonderful agencies of war have astonished the world in the present European conflict. The Sixty-third congress ordered the construction of three seagoing submarines, the largest ever authorized by any country, and twenty-three submarines of the same size and type which have done such fearful execution in the present war. These submarines will cost $16,200,000."

"Some of our submarines are not as perfect as they should be, nor are the submarines of any other nation. Under this administration, however, the board of inspections has adopted stricter tests before accepting submarines from contractors. Nobody has as yet perfected a satisfactory engine or satisfactory battery for submarines.

"Upon my invitation Mr. Edison last year at the New York navy yard was down into a submarine and closely studied its every feature. He thought he has a battery that will meet the need. Our tests at the Brooklyn navy yard caused us to believe Mr. Edison has the right principle. Without waiting for the completion of his battery he has been given an order for two one to be put into an old submarine accepted before March 4, 1913, whose battery does not give satisfaction, and one for a new submarine which I have ordered built in the Portsmouth (N. H.) navy yard."

Government to Build Submarines.

"Private firms building submarines have not given entire satisfaction. We have equipped the Portsmouth navy yard to build submarines, and by competition between private and government construction it is hoped that every obstacle may be overcome."

"As to torpedoes, a statement has been put in circulation that the navy is not making adequate provision to supply itself with torpedoes. The answer I can make is to state the fact that we either have on hand or have placed orders for all the torpedoes the general board prescribes."

"As to mines and mining, during the last two years unprecedented progress has been made in the expansion of mining equipment. This was begun and was well under way before the last congress met. The navy is not, I may suppose, charged with the maintenance of our harbors. That is a function of the army. The extent of the mining operations of the navy is confined to the immediate vicinity of the fleet and such mining as may be necessary on the high seas. The department has begun the manufacture of mines and in a short time will have thirty-one mines for every mine it had two years ago."

The New Fourteen Inch Gun.

"As to guns, the bureau of ordnance has developed a fourteen inch gun that will shoot farther, shoot straighter and hit harder than any gun now in use or known to be designed by a foreign country."

"As to powder, congress increased the capacity of the navy powder factory at Indian Head. When the extension now under way is completed the capacity will be nearly doubled."

"As to radio, radio has at last been successfully installed on submarines and more than seventy-five other ships, which either had no radio or whose equipment was obsolete have been supplied with modern equipment. Three entirely new shore stations have been added to the chain—Balboa, canal zone, Great Lakes, Illinois, and Tutuila, Samoa."

"As to air craft, the European war has emphasized the value of air craft. The navy has lagged behind in the instrument of war. Last year I appointed a board of aviation. It recommended the utilization of the abandoned navy yard at Pensacola as a craning and repair station for aviation and an aviation bureau in the department. This has been done. Upon

Capable Aviators.

"It also approved my request to pay aviators an increase of 50 per cent, and we are organizing a class of capable aviators. To make immediately effective this feature three new hydroaeroplanes have just been purchased, which is but the beginning of the work of aviation, now well advanced along the lines of a well considered plan."

"As to savings effected, all this unprecedented increase in the navy has been secured, too, without large increase in appropriations. How? By avoiding unnecessary expenditure ashore, by reducing the cost of work ashore, while maintaining its quality and reducing appropriations for enlargement of shore stations, by securing real competition and by economy."

"But of what worth is a ship without well trained men? It is a pleasure to tell you that for the first time in years the enlistment is up to the limit prescribed by law, and part of the year we have had a waiting list."

ALLIES PIERCE GERMAN LINES

London, May 27.—The British forces have pierced the German lines east of Festubert with a three mile wedge, and now occupy the first and second line of trenches of the enemy. This word came in the form of an official statement from Sir John French, issued by the press bureau.

The French official communique tells of the French holding their own after their great successes north of Arras. In the face of desperate attacks of the Germans they gave ground only once, and that was when the enemy occupied for a short time a portion of the trenches around the position known as Les Cornailles. They were soon after routed, and in no other salient were they able to make any headway.

Me for 'GETS-IT' When I Have Corns

As Saying It; Never Fails.

It does your heart good to see how fast and quickly any corn comes out when you put "GETS-IT" on! And then you've gone along for years trying to get rid of it.

"Look, 'GETS-IT' Makes Corns Fall Right Off!"

Everything, when you've sat up nights rubbing up your toes in bandages, waiting on salves that rub off or swell the corn, pasting on cotton plasters that make corns pop-eyed, slaughtering your toes with razors, jabbing them with knives and prunings to the quick with "GETS-IT" and see your corn fall right off. It just looks like a miracle. Just "GETS-IT" never fails. No pain, no trouble. Use it for any corn, callus, or bunions.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere. See a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

HOW YOUR CORNS MUST GO

Hunt Discovers Method that Kills Corns by Penetration. ONLY 10c.

That old corn, that stubborn corn, that corn that sore corn, the corn that will not back, you can now get rid of it once for all, for Dr. Hunt of Sidney, Ohio, has discovered the scientific principle that makes corns go easily and painlessly.

Dr. Hunt's New Corn Cure does its work by penetration. That is Nature's own way. Into the very root of the corn. Corn lifts its root, body and branch in two days. No boring. No dangerous caustic ingredients. No liquids to dry out. No greasy pads or greasy salves. Dr. Hunt's Corn Cure comes in ready-to-apply form. Trim plaster exact size of corn. Apply. More than two applications are necessary for the most stubborn case. Corn comes up at once. The soothing penetrating ingredient works without disturbance. In two days you have no corn. This is a doctor's discovery. The result of a long study.

And a box-full costs you only ten cents. No money refunded. Sold by druggists and shoe dealers. Or, send ten cents in stamps to American Chemical Company, Sidney, Ohio.

REMEMBERED IN SCOTLAND

Soldiers of Our Civil War Have Memorial In Edinburgh Cemetery.

IN one of the oldest burying grounds of Edinburgh, the Old Calton, which lies on a spur of the Calton crags, there stands close to the mausoleum that marks the grave of David Hume, philosopher and historian, a striking memorial, which, through the exertions of Wallace Bruce, formerly American consul in Edinburgh, was erected in 1893 to the memory of Scotsmen who fell in the American civil war. The memorial is visited by most of the American tourists who go to Edinburgh. It consists of a statue of Abraham Lincoln and, below it, kneeling with uplifted hands, a life size figure of one of the negro race whose freedom from slavery Lincoln secured.

The memorial on a recent Memorial day was draped with the flags of the United States and Scotland, and over the folds of the stars and stripes and St. Andrew's cross were laid a number of beautiful wreaths, while loose flowers were strewn around the granite base upon which the figures rest. A magnificent wreath of arum lilies, lilies of the valley and evergreens was placed on the monument by the United States consul at Edinburgh, and another tribute was sent by the United States consul at Denver.

Miss Margaret Taylor, a woman over eighty years of age, visited the ground and placed on the memorial a small sheaf of flowers in memory of her brother, John Taylor, who, on March 7, 1863, fell in a skirmish at Rappahannock. When he left Scotland Taylor received a presentation watch from his employer. The watch was found on him after his death and was sent home to his people in Scotland, with a letter which he had written to his sister the day before he fell.

AT THE "BLOODY ANGLE."

Recalled by Civil War Survivors as a Very Hot Place.

One of the most desperate fights of the civil war was that which took place at the "Bloody Angle" on May 12, 1864. It is still remembered by the survivors as probably the hottest place they ever were in. General L. A. Grant, commander of the Vermont brigade, described the fight at the "dead line" as follows:

"It was not only a desperate struggle, but it was literally a hand to hand fight. Nothing but the piled up logs or breastworks separated the combatants. Our men would reach over the logs and fire into the faces of the enemy, who would stab over with their bayonets. Many were shot and stabbed through the crevices and holes between the logs. Men mounted the works and with muskets rapidly handed them

"Several times during the day the Confederates would show a white flag about the works and when our fire slackened jump over and surrender, and others were crowded down to fill their places. It was there that the somewhat celebrated tree was cut off by bullets—there that the brush and logs were cut to pieces and whipped into basket stuff."

General McGowan, who was on the other side of the trenches leading the South Carolina brigade, stated in his report:

"Our men lay on one side of the breastwork, the enemy on the other, and in many instances men were pulled over. The trenches on the right had to be cleared of the dead more than once. An oak tree twenty-two inches in diameter in rear of the brigade was cut down by musket balls, and it fell about 12 o'clock Thursday night, the 12th, injuring several men in the First South Carolina regiment."

"DEAD" SOLDIER AWOKE.

Wounded Union Man Came to Life and Scared His Company.

Major Samuel A. Losch of Pennsylvania once told the following remarkable episode of the civil war:

After the charge in the fight at the Weldon road, in which his regiment participated, Aug. 19, 1864, Company F had but two men left, named McManus and Kull. These men, under command of (then) Sergeant Losch, were among those on picket duty during the night. McManus had gone beyond the line and was behind a tree when a flash of lightning revealed his whereabouts to Kull, who, mistaking him for a Confederate, fired and shot McManus in the head. Kull's mistake was discovered, and his comrade's body was carried to the rear, covered with a blanket and placed on the ground, a supposed dead Union soldier.

Next morning, while a party of the regiment were seated around the campfire discussing hardtack and coffee in close proximity to McManus' body, the blanket was seen to move, and directly, to the great consternation of the party, McManus rose up, walked to the fire and asked for a cup of coffee. After his comrades had recovered themselves they returned to the fire and accommodated the resurrected McManus. He was badly wounded, however, and was sent to a hospital. The operation of trepanning was performed, and the soldier recovered.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Instruction in water polo began in the pool Wednesday evening. A good sized bunch turned out and the first game was spirited if lacking in science. It is believed there will be no difficulty in securing up two or three teams. A regular water polo ball arrived Thursday and will take the place of the improvised ball used Wednesday. It is suggested that one night a week be given to water polo.

The boy scouts will drill in the gymnasium tonight under the direction of Major Rell G. Allen. This is the second drill and interest is lively.

DROWNING OUT A FIRE.

High Pressure Water Streams That Tear Down Room Partitions.

Just think of picking up a pond or a small reservoir containing about 30,000 gallons of water and throwing it bodily at a fire, and then picking up another pond or reservoir containing the same amount of water and throwing that at the fire within a moment's time, and keeping up this performance every minute for an hour until the fire is drenched with nearly 2,000,000 gallons of water! Quite a "bucket brigade," eh?

Practically that is what the New York fire department does today with its high pressure system, for with this method of water supply the firemen can obtain 30,000 gallons of water a minute and, if necessary, at a maximum pressure of 300 pounds to the square inch—sufficient pressure or "pushing power" behind the stream to carry it from the street to the top of an eight story building or even higher. It has the greatest possible advantage over the "throwing" method, since the firemen, with the aid of their water towers and monitor nozzles, can direct right into the heart of the fire this immense volume of water—enormous streams that smash windows, tear down partitions, sweep aside merchandise and squirm, twist and force themselves into every nook and corner of a building, searching out the fire better than the firemen can and smothering it before it can reach the danger mark.

And this is why that in a portion of New York city noted a few years ago for destructive fires the big fire has, in a sense, disappeared.—Charles T. Hill in St. Nicholas.

GREAT FOUNTAIN GEYSER.

The Great Fountain geyser, in the Yellowstone National park, lies a mile and a half southeast of the Fountain geyser. It is the chief wonder of the lower basin and in some respects the most remarkable geyser in the park. Its formation is quite unlike that of any other.

At first sight the visitor is tempted to believe that some one has here placed a vast pedestal upon which to erect a monument. It is a broad, circular table about two feet high composed of hard, siliceous deposit. In its surface are numerous pools, molded and ornamented in a manner quite unapproachable, at least on so large a scale, in any other part of the park. In the center of the pedestal, where the monument ought to stand, is a large irregular pool of great depth, full of hot water, forming to all appearances a lovely, quiescent spring.

At times of eruption the contents of this spring are hurled bodily upward to a height sometimes reaching 100 feet. The torrent of water which follows the prodigious downpouring upon the face of the pedestal flows away in all directions over the white geyserite plain. No visitor to the Yellowstone can afford to miss the Great Fountain geyser. — "The Yellowstone National Park," by Hiram Martin Chittenden, Brigadier General United States Army, Retired.

Vegetable Ink.

There is in Colombia a curious vegetable product known as the ink plant. Its juice, called chanchi, can be used, it is said, without any previous preparation. The letters traced are of a reddish brown color at first, but turn a deep black in a few hours. This curious juice is less injurious to steel pens than the commercial inks. These qualities of the plant seem to have been discovered under the Spanish administration. Some writings intended for the mother country were wet through by sea water on the voyage. While the papers written with common ink were almost illegible, those written with the vegetable ink were quite uninjured. Orders were given in consequence that this plant juice be used for the inscribing of all public documents.—New York American.

ARMY BUGLES.

Fashioned From Sheets of Copper by an Ingenious Process.

From start to finish the making of an army bugle is a process of much ingenuity and interest. A bugle may not at first sight present a striking resemblance to its cousin, the coach horn, but one is practically a curled up version of the other, for before the bugle is bent into shape it consists of a narrow tube fifty-one inches long.

In the first stage of manufacture the bugle is cut out of sheet copper and rolled into two thin cylinders, technically known as the "bell" and the "branch." The narrow tube, which is the "bell," is gradually shaped out on molds until the opening is the regular four inches in diameter. It is then "spun" on a wonderful machine, and an expert workman takes the rough edges off the copper.

Both sections are afterward filled with molten lead preparatory to the bending stage, and it is this solid stuffing which prevents the tube breaking in the process and allows it to keep its shape. The expert workman, with the aid of a formidable lever and hammer, bends the bugle into the familiar shape, the lead being subsequently melted out at a charcoal furnace, after which the instrument is sent off to the polishers.

One of the most intricate parts of the bugle is the mouthpiece, which is made of nickel silver and turned out on a special lathe. With the mouthpiece fixed the instrument is ready for the testing room.—Pearson's Weekly.

Home For a Holiday.

Some men on a home holiday think all day long, others bring with them great many books which they never read, and the result in both cases is that housekeeping becomes a prolonged picking up. All men at home on a vacation eat a great deal more than other men or than at other times, but with the sole exception of the anomalous academic, who is always concerned for his gastronomy, they will eat anything and enjoy it and say so. A man at home for his holiday is always vociferously appreciative. His happiness is almost enough to repay a woman for the noise he makes and the mess, yet statistics could show that during any man's home vacation the women of the house lose just about as many pounds as the man gains. But what are women for, or homes?—April Atlantic.

Perhaps the yellow races thought they must pull together in order to keep up with the European procession.

AUSTRO-ITALIAN FORCES ENGAGED IN FIERCE BATTLE AROUND PLOKEN

Galician Battle Subsiding and Germans Claim French Thrown Back in West—Allies Making Further Advance on Gallipoli Peninsula—King Emmanuel Urges Troops On—Pope Issues Statement and Appeal.

By Associated Press.

Geneva, Switzerland, May 27.—A strong Italian advance guard today crossed the Isonzo river, after a sharp fight with an Austrian force, and arrived before the town of Moutalome, which is 30 miles from the Austrian seaport of Trieste. The first of the Austrian wounded are now arriving at the latter place.

The Italians also attacked at several points along the 40 miles of the Carinthian frontier. A battle between the Italians and Austrians now is raging around Ploken and also west of the Praedil pass in Austria. In Adige the fighting has been limited to skirmishes.

Italian forces which penetrated the Tyrol at Candino and other Italian armies which captured Cormons are now marching on Goritz, the capital of the Austrian crownland of Goritz, and Gradisca.

Both the Austrian and Italian aviation services are very active along the frontier. Many machines have been gathered at Venice to protect that city.

An airship arrived by rail at Trent yesterday from Munich, Bavaria, and a Zeppelin is reported to be preparing to follow it.

Several regiments of Bavarian Alpine troops yesterday crossed Brenner pass, which is 4,485 feet high, bound for Botzen. Between Salzburg and Innsbruck 45 trains are passing daily transporting men and material.

Berlin, May 27.—A report issued by German army headquarters today says that attacks in force, made by the French in an effort to break through the German line near the Lorette hills, have been repulsed. A large number of French killed are said to be lying in front of the German trenches.

London, May 27.—The great Galician battle is subsiding with the Austro-German forces holding the advantage.

The Berlin War Office announces German forces are progressing northeast of Przemyśl and in the Stry district.

A message from Athens says allied forces are continuing their advance on the Gallipoli peninsula and have occupied important positions by bayonet attacks.

Rome, May 27.—King Victor Emmanuel, upon taking supreme command of the Italian army and navy, issued an order calling upon his soldiers and sailors to vanquish the enemy.

The king declared that the time has come for Italy to strike and "unfurl her colors on the sacred land which nature has given as the frontiers of our country."

A declaration by the pope, made to one of the cardinals in a letter published in a Vatican organ says prayers will go out more fervently than ever "to those who have in their hands the fate of nations."

The pontiff also recalled how his appeal to the belligerents for peace went unheeded and the war continued until "the terrible conflagration has extended to our beloved Italy." He calls on Catholics to practice with him for three days a strict ecclesiastical fast.

TURKS CAPTURE FRENCH TRANSPORT

By Associated Press.

Constantinople, May 27.—Official announcement was made here today that a transport ship, escorted by a French cruiser, attempted a landing at Bourdoun under protection of the ship's guns.

The announcement declares the transport was captured and several of the landing party killed.

LEGISLATURE WILL NOT END WORK TODAY

By Associated Press.

Columbus, May 27.—Today appeared little like the last day of the legislative session in either House or Senate. Both went calmly about the business of passing bills, but all indications pointed to a failure to finish up by tonight as planned.

A deadlock over the congressional redistricting bill seems to be one of the principal reasons for holding up adjournment.

An official of the house today declared the great wall clocks in both House and Senate would be stopped a few minutes before midnight and the hands would remain at those positions until the work was finished.

FIVE MEXICANS MAY BE HANGED

By Associated Press.

Phoenix, Arizona, May 27.—Governor Hunt, to whom Secretary Bryan appealed today by telegraph suggesting a commutation for the five Mexicans condemned to death, has no power in the case. Their fate lies with the State Pardon Board.

A representative of General Villa appeared before the board today to plead for their lives. The Mexicans are to die on the gallows tomorrow.

AIRMEN RAID BIG CHEMICAL FACTORY

By Associated Press.

Paris, May 27.—A French aerial squadron composed of 18 aeroplanes, each one carrying 110 pounds of projectiles, this morning bombarded a chemical factory at Ludwigshafen on the Rhine, opposite Mannheim.

Fire broke out in several parts of the factory buildings as a result of this bombardment. This factory is one of the most important manufacturing of explosives in all Germany.

The French aviators were in the air six hours and covered more than 400 kilometers (240 miles).

This expedition against an important German military establishment was the French reply to the attempts of German aviators on Paris.

This information was contained in the French official statement given out by the War office this afternoon.

ZEPPELINS RAID CITY

By Associated Press.

Southend, England, May 27.—Another Zeppelin raid was made on this town last night and one woman was killed and several persons injured by the bombs which were dropped. The material damage appears to have been slight. Southend is a seaside resort forty miles from London.

Some reports say two, and possibly three, Zeppelins took part in the raid. Noise of their approach was heard about 11 o'clock. Then came the shock of the explosions as the bombs rained down from above. Some of the missiles were incendiary and threw out bright flashes of light.

British aeroplanes were sent in pursuit of the Zeppelins but did not overtake them. Southend had been the target for several raids. An Admiralty statement says two women were killed.

DANISH VESSEL IS TORPEDOED

By Associated Press.

South Shields, England, May 27.—The Danish steamer Betty was torpedoed by a German submarine in the North Sea yesterday, and went to the bottom. The members of her crew were rescued and have been brought to the Tyne.

The Betty was of 1,267 tons registry. She was owned in Copenhagen. She sailed from Baltimore April 10 for Copenhagen where she arrived May 8.

LAST VETERAN IN OHIO PEN IS PARDONED

By Associated Press.

Columbus, May 27.—Announcement today by Governor Willis that the Memorial Day pardon would go to Samuel Ferguson, aged 74, of Lima, who is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for murder, makes possible the release this week of the last civil war veteran confined in the institution.

The four other civil war veterans who were prisoners were today transferred to the soldiers' home at Sandusky on orders of the governor issued yesterday. These men, with Ferguson, were all brought to the governor's office this morning, where Governor Willis spoke to them about their release. Ferguson was taken back to the penitentiary to wait until Saturday, when he will be released.

THE MORWENNA IS LAST VICTIM

By Associated Press.

Cardiff, Wales, May 27.—The steamer Morwenna, of Montreal, was torpedoed and shelled by a German submarine at midday, noon, of Wednesday at a point 160 miles west by south of St. Ann's head. One member of the crew of the vessel was killed, while three were wounded. The others have been landed here.

The vessel was bound from Cardiff for Sidney, Cape Breton, in ballast. A Belgian trawler picked up the crew.

MINE OR TORPEDO IS NOT YET DETERMINED

By Associated Press.

Washington, May 27.—Messages received by the State Department today from Ambassador Page and Consul General Skinner at London and Consul Frost at Queenstown fail to say definitely whether the steamer Nebraskan has been torpedoed or has struck a mine.

One of the dispatches said the Nebraskan's American flag had been hauled down five minutes before she was attacked, although her name was painted on her sides in letters six feet high.

Consul Skinner's message says the Nebraskan was about 48 miles from Fastnet when a terrific explosion occurred. Hatches were burst open by the shock and iron work twisted. The lower hold filled up with water. The crew took to the boats, the message says, but later returned to the ship. Admiralty vessels answered a wireless call for help.

Ambassador Page reported he was sending a naval attaché to Liverpool to examine the Nebraskan.

As soon as the dispatches were received at the State Department they were forwarded to the White House and immediately placed before the president. As they did not make it certain whether the steamer had been hit by a mine or a torpedo they left unanswered the principal point that the president and his advisers want made clear. They expect further reports from the naval attaché. Pending receipt of clearer explanations no action will be taken.

New York, May 27.—The American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, owners of the American steamer Nebraskan, damaged by a mine or torpedo off Fastnet last Tuesday, received advices today that the vessel was due to reach Liverpool tonight. Fuller details of the incident are expected when the Nebraskan reaches Liverpool.

GREAT STORMS AND FLOODS CLAIM TOLL IN SOUTHWEST

By Associated Press.

Fort Smith, Ark., May 27.—Six persons are reported dead as a result of the storm which swept western Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma, last night and early today.

Reports reaching here from Antlers, Okla., assert that more than 60 persons were injured at Talihina, where four were killed.

Wire and rail communication in the stricken district is almost impossible and some estimates place the loss of life at a larger figure. Property damage is heavy and may reach more than $1,000,000.

Fears of serious floods are increasing. The Arkansas river here today had reached 25 feet, 3 feet above flood stage, and one of its tributaries was a raging torrent.

A cloudburst was reported at Poteau, Okla., but the extent of the damage has not been learned.

Reports of distress have been received from Stigler, Okla., which was struck by a tornado last Saturday.

Residents of Little Rock today began preparations to combat the flood of the Arkansas river. A gas famine has aggravated the situation there.

The Berlin War Office announces German forces are progressing northeast of Przemyśl and in the Stry district.

A message from Athens says allied forces are continuing their advance on the Gallipoli peninsula and have occupied important positions by bayonet attacks.

Rome, May 27.—King Victor Emmanuel, upon taking supreme command of the Italian army and navy, issued an order calling upon his soldiers and sailors to vanquish the enemy.

The king declared that the time has come for Italy to strike and "unfurl her colors on the sacred land which nature has given as the frontiers of our country."

A declaration by the pope, made to one of the cardinals in a letter published in a Vatican organ says prayers will go out more fervently than ever "to those who have in their hands the fate of nations." The pontiff also recalled how his appeal to the belligerents for peace went unheeded and the war continued until "the terrible conflagration has extended to our beloved Italy." He calls on Catholics to practice with him for three days a strict ecclesiastical fast.

TURKS CAPTURE
FRENCH TRANSPORT

By Associated Press.
Constantinople, May 27.—Official announcement was made here today that a transport ship, escorted by a French cruiser, attempted a landing at Bourdroun under protection of the ship's guns.

The announcement declares the transport was captured and several of the landing party killed.

LEGISLATURE
WORK TODAY

By Associated Press.
Columbus, May 27.—Today appeared little like the last day of the legislative session in either House or Senate. Both went calmly about the business of passing bills, but all indications pointed to a failure to finish up by tonight as planned.

A deadlock over the congressional redistricting bill seems to be one of the principal reasons for holding up adjournment.

An official of the house today declared the great wall clocks in both House and Senate would be stopped a few minutes before midnight and the hands would remain at those positions until the work was finished.

FIVE MEXICANS
MAY BE HANGED

By Associated Press.
Phoenix, Arizona, May 27.—Governor Hunt, to whom Secretary Bryan appealed today by telegraph suggesting a commutation for the five Mexicans condemned to death, has no power in the case. Their fate lies with the State Pardon Board.

A representative of General Villa appeared before the board today to plead for their lives. The Mexicans are to die on the gallows tomorrow.

AIRMEN
CHEMICAL FACTORY

By Associated Press.

Paris, May 27.—A French aerial squadron composed of 18 aeroplanes, each one carrying 110 pounds of projectiles, this morning bombarded a chemical factory at Ludwigshafen on the Rhine, opposite Mannheim.

Fire broke out in several parts of the factory buildings as a result of this bombardment. This factory is one of the most important manufacturing of explosives in all Germany.

The French aviators were in the air six hours and covered more than 400 kilometers (240 miles).

This expedition against an important German military establishment was the French reply to the attempts of German aviators on Paris.

ZEPPELINS RAID CITY

By Associated Press.

Southend, England, May 27.—Another Zeppelin raid was made on this town last night and one woman was killed and several persons injured by the bombs which were dropped. The material damage appears to have been slight. Southend is a seaside resort forty miles from London.

Some reports say two, and possibly three, Zeppelins took part in the raid. Noise of their approach was heard about 11 o'clock. Then came the shock of the explosions as the bombs rained down from above. Some of the missiles were incendiary and threw out bright flashes of light.

British aeroplanes were sent in pursuit of the Zeppelins but did not overtake them. Southend had been the target for several raids. An Admiralty statement says two women were killed.

DANISH VESSEL IS TORPEDOED

By Associated Press.
South Shields, England, May 27.—The Danish steamer Betty was torpedoed by a German submarine in the North Sea yesterday, and went to the bottom. The members of her crew were rescued and have been brought to the Tyne.

The Betty was of 1,267 tons registry. She was owned in Copenhagen. She sailed from Baltimore April 10 for Copenhagen where she arrived May 8.

LAST VETERAN
IS PARDONED

By Associated Press.

Columbus, May 27.—Announcement today by Governor Willis that the Memorial Day pardon would go to Samuel Ferguson, aged 74, of Lima, who is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for murder, makes possible the release this week of the last civil war veteran confined in the institution.

The four other civil war veterans who were prisoners were today transferred to the soldiers' home at Sandusky on orders of the governor issued yesterday. These men, with Ferguson, were all brought to the governor's office this morning, where Governor Willis spoke to them about their release. Ferguson was taken back to the penitentiary to wait until Saturday, when he will be released.

THE MORWENNA IS LAST VICTIM

By Associated Press.

Cardiff, Wales, May 27.—The steamer Morwenna, of Montreal, was torpedoed and shelled by a German submarine at midday, noon, of Wednesday at a point 160 miles west by south of St. Ann's head. One member of the crew of the vessel was killed, while three were wounded. The others have been landed here.

The vessel was bound from Cardiff for Sidney, Cape Breton, in ballast. A Belgian trawler picked up the crew.

MINE OR TORPEDO IS NOT YET DETERMINED

Searching Inquiry Is Being Made Into Near-destruction of the Nebraskan—Damaged Ship Reaches Liverpool Tonight—All Facts Awaited Before U. S. Determines Action.

By Associated Press.
Washington, May 27.—Messages received by the State Department today from Ambassador Page and Consul General Skinner at London and Consul Frost at Queenstown fail to say definitely whether the steamer Nebraskan has been torpedoed or has struck a mine.

One of the dispatches said the Nebraskan's American flag had been hauled down five minutes before she was attacked, although her name was painted on her sides in letters six feet high.

Consul Skinner's message says the Nebraskan was about 48 miles from Fastnet when a terrific explosion occurred. Hatches were burst open by the shock and iron work twisted. The lower hold filled up with water. The crew took to the boats, the message says, but later returned to the ship. Admiralty vessels answered a wireless call for help.

sending a naval attaché to Liverpool to examine the Nebraskan.

As soon as the dispatches were received at the State Department they were forwarded to the White House and immediately placed before the president. As they did not make it certain whether the steamer had been hit by a mine or a torpedo they left unanswered the principal point that the president and his advisers want made clear. They expect further reports from the naval attaché. Pending receipt of clearer explanations no action will be taken.

New York, May 27.—The American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, owners of the American steamer Nebraskan, damaged by a mine or torpedo off Fastnet last Tuesday, received advices today that the vessel was due to reach Liverpool tonight. Fuller details of the incident are expected when the Nebraskan reaches Liverpool.

GREAT STORMS AND FLOODS CLAIM TOLL IN SOUTHWEST

By Associated Press.
Fort Smith, Ark., May 27.—Six persons are reported dead as a result of the storm which swept western Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma, last night and early today.

Reports reaching here from Antlers, Okla., assert that more than 60 persons were injured at Talihina, where four were killed.

Wire and rail communication in the stricken district is almost impossible and some estimates place the loss of life at a larger figure. Property damage is heavy and may reach more than $1,000,000.

Fears of serious floods are increasing. The Arkansas river here today had reached 25 feet, 3 feet above flood stage, and one of its tributaries was a raging torrent.

A cloudburst was reported at Potau, Okla., but the extent of the damage has not been learned.

Reports of distress have been received from Stigler, Okla., which was struck by a tornado last Saturday.

Residents of Little Rock today began preparations to combat the flood of the Arkansas river. A gas famine has aggravated the situation there.

FIVE PER CENT CLAUSE TARIFF ACT IS UPHOLD

Washington, May 27.—The so called 5 per cent clause of the tariff law, granting a reduction of duties to that amount of goods imported in American ships, was sustained by the customs court, which held also that the 5 per cent rebate must be granted on all goods imported in ships of those countries with which the United States has favored nation treaties. As such treaties exist with the principal countries of the world, the effect of the decision is practically to reduce the customs revenue by 5 per cent. If the decision is sustained by the supreme court of the United States, to which it will be appealed, approximately $15,000,000 in duties already collected must be refunded.

Government officials realize that the decision may have a profound effect upon the fiscal policy of the United States. At present the actual working balance in the treasury is under $15,000,000, though possibly $40,000,000 is available to be added to this if necessary. With an announced deficit in the postal revenues and no increase in internal revenue or customs receipts now in sight, talk of the necessity for an issue of Panama canal bonds was revived, in view of the prospect of reduced customs revenues and the necessity of refunding millions already collected. The payment of some $80,000,000 into the treasury due from the income tax, however, is counted on to delay any such emergency for several months.

GALLAGHER BILL SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Columbus, May 27.—The Gallagher bill, which amends the Green anti-coal screen law so as to permit Ohio miners and operators to contract as to the method of mining and weighing, has been signed by Governor Willis.

In a lengthy statement setting forth his reasons for signing the measure the governor asserts that he "utterly disapproves" some of the arguments used in securing the bill's passage, but, after painstaking consideration of all questions involved, he had decided to sign it. He declared that he had approached the proposition of signing or vetoing the measure rather from the viewpoint of the miner than from that of the operator.

The governor declared that by the measure's becoming law the right to contract goes on trial so far as the relations of the miners and operators are concerned and that it is incumbent upon the advocates of the measure, the operators, to demonstrate the correctness of their views. If under the new law the miners are unable to agree on new contracts when the present ones expire, he declares, the idea of the right of contract would receive a serious blow, in the estimation of the public, and he would be inclined to recommend new legislation on the subject at the next regular session of the legislature, or a special session. The governor practically puts it up to the operators to demonstrate the soundness of their contention that they should be given the right to contract.

Legislature Reconvenes.

Though the legislature reconvened at 9 o'clock this morning for one day to finish up the business of the session, it is not expected that the work will be anything near completion by the time the clock strikes at mid night. Some solons are of the opinion that pending legislation may take them over into next week and that at the very best it will not be completed before Saturday night.

One feature of the closing session will be the submission of the report of the bank department probe committee, which was very active for several weeks during the early part of the session delving into the activities of former State Bank Superintendent Emory Lattanner. The report severely criticizes Mr. Lattanner in his conduct of the department. It declares appointments were made through political influence rather than because of efficiency. It charges extravagant fees were paid liquidating agents and attorneys employed in looking after the affairs of banks in process of liquidation. It also charges that salaries and money were paid from funds of banks in liquidation, before approval of the courts had been given.

The report charges that Mr. Lattanner forced banks into liquidation without giving them an opportunity of taking advantage of credit which had been offered by other banks or by individuals who were responsible. The report was drafted by Henry S. Ballard, first assistant attorney general, who looked after the legal end of the committee's work and did most of the examining of witnesses. It is said that the committee may be continued after adjournment to make further investigations.

Conference Reports.

The committee having in charge the Whitacre bill, providing for one day's rest in seven for workmen in all industries, has worked out an agreement. Many of the exemptions inserted by the senate have been eliminated and the measure is in almost the same form as passed by the house, providing for only a few exemptions.

Conference committees worked diligently in preparing reports on bills which had been sent to them. All committees apparently had agreed upon amendments, excepting the one hav-

CRIPPLED LINER LIMPS INTO HARBOR

New York, May 27.—The Holland-American steamer Ryndam, bound from this port for Rotterdam with eighty passengers and a million dollar cargo, and which was in collision with the little Norwegian freighter Joseph J. Cuneo, arrived here in crippled condition and will go into drydock for repairs.

The story of the collision as told by one of the passengers gives credit to the skipper, officers and stewards of the Ryndam for calming the passengers. Life belts were put on by most of the passengers. The Cuneo stood by the liner and the wireless operators of both ships exchanged messages about their respective wounds. The sea was smooth and life boats were lowered from the Ryndam without mishap after the Cuneo skipper and Captain Van Der Heuvel had arranged for the transfer.

Immediately following the collision a wireless message from the Ryndam reached the Atlantic battleship fleet, maneuvering off the New England coast. It was a race for honor and glory between the Louisiana, Kansas, South Carolina, Texas and Michigan. The South Carolina won. Captain Russell of the South Carolina transferred the passengers and sixty of the Ryndam's crew from the Cuneo to the battleship. Captain Van Der Heuvel of the Ryndam had found out by this time that he could make port without risking his ship, and he proceeded. The Texas and the South Carolina conveyed the liner to this port.

How Gold Dust actually works for you

The active principle of Gold Dust is a valuable antiseptic cleansing agent.

It actually works. It gets into the corners and crevices where fingers and washcloths can't reach. It permeates and dissolves dirt, grease and grime everywhere and it cleans and brightens everything.

Gold Dust does all this—does this actual work—because it is made for that purpose.

Millions of women all over the country use Gold Dust three times a day in washing dishes. They use it also for scrubbing floors, washing windows, etc.

But they do not realize all the uses of Gold Dust. Gold Dust is the only washing and cleaning powder needed in any home.

Gold Dust cleans metal work, nickel, enameled ware, etc., without scratching or marring the surface—leaving it sanitariously clean, bright and new-looking.

The use of Gold Dust is an economy. There can be no waste when you use the exact small quantity required for each specific purpose. It is at once taken up by hot or cold water, forming the perfect cleansing solution.

No soap or other cleansing help is needed. Gold Dust does it all, and Gold Dust does its work far better than anything else can.

Use Gold Dust not only for washing dishes, but for washing bathtubs and bathroom fixtures, cleaning oil mops, cleaning and freshening linoleum and oilcloth, cleaning and brightening pots, pans and cooking utensils, giving luster to glassware—for every cleaning and brightening purpose.

Gold Dust is as inexpensive as it is indispensable.

FORMER GOVERNOR PREDICTS NEW ERA

Kansas City, May 27.—Myron T. Herrick, former governor of Ohio and former United States ambassador to France, addressing a Republican gathering, predicted a new era in American politics which will place politics on a higher and more intellectual plane. "In the new era," he said, "the business man will put personality into politics; he, not his money, will measure his influence."

How Gold Dust actually works for you

The active principle of Gold Dust is a valuable antiseptic cleansing agent.

It actually works. It gets into the corners and crevices where fingers and washcloths can't reach. It permeates and dissolves dirt, grease and grime everywhere and it cleans and brightens everything.

Gold Dust does all this—does this actual work—because it is made for that purpose.

Millions of women all over the country use Gold Dust three times a day in washing dishes. They use it also for scrubbing floors, washing windows, etc.

But they do not realize all the uses of Gold Dust. Gold Dust is the only washing and cleaning powder needed in any home.

Gold Dust cleans metal work, nickel, enameled ware, etc., without scratching or marring the surface—leaving it sanitariously clean, bright and new-looking.

The use of Gold Dust is an economy. There can be no waste when you use the exact small quantity required for each specific purpose. It is at once taken up by hot or cold water, forming the perfect cleansing solution.

No soap or other cleansing help is needed. Gold Dust does it all, and Gold Dust does its work far better than anything else can.

Use Gold Dust not only for washing dishes, but for washing bathtubs and bathroom fixtures, cleaning oil mops, cleaning and freshening linoleum and oilcloth, cleaning and brightening pots, pans and cooking utensils, giving luster to glassware—for every cleaning and brightening purpose.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

WOMAN IS ACCUSED OF KILLING MOTHER

Philadelphia, May 27.—Miss Bertha Kreider, forty-seven, is under arrest on suspicion of having hastened the death of her mother, Mrs. Emmanuel Kreider, seventy-three, at the Episcopal hospital. Mrs. Kreider had been suffering from senility and also a broken leg. The hospital authorities reported to the coroner's office that the patient had died of chloroform poisoning, and Miss Kreider's arrest was ordered. The police believe that grief over her mother's condition unhinged the daughter's mind.

COMMENCEMENT AT KENYON COLLEGE

Gambier, O., May 27.—Rev. George P. Atwater of Akron will deliver the annual address at the eighty-seventh commencement of Kenyon college, June 4. The program of senior week extends from June 11-15 and includes the various class entertainments and alumni and fraternity reunions.

Kindergarten class. There are in the United States approximately 4,000,000 children between the ages of four and six, which is ordinarily considered the kindergarten age says a report of the federal commissioner of education. Only about 300,000 of these children are enrolled in public and private kindergartens and probably not more than 3,000 in Montessori schools.

Another Roosevelt Victory

Mr. Barnes has lost out completely in his famous libel case against Colonel Roosevelt. Mr. Barnes asked to recover fifty thousand dollars from Colonel Roosevelt and the jury responded to his appeal by allowing him to pay the costs of the case. The Court costs and other direct expense totaled about thirty thousand dollars, making a net loss to Mr. Barnes—plusing what he asked for with what he must pay as costs—about eighty thousand dollars.

In addition to that Mr. Barnes is compelled to see his political enemy triumph over him in a court of law and endure the humiliation which must go with an adverse verdict.

The strenuous ex-president has again emerged victorious from an unusual contest.

Colonel Roosevelt has demonstrated his ability to get in and fight his way out of more unexpected altercations than any man in public life.

A political boss—such as Barnes now stands adjudged of being—hasn't very much chance to win over Colonel Roosevelt in a finish fight before the average American jury.

The verdict is proof that while the Colonel's disregard for legal formalities may be obnoxious to the technical lawyer of the Ivins kind, he nevertheless has the power to convince the jurors.

The Colonel is, of course, "delighted" and submitted to being photographed with the jurors who vindicated him.

The End of the Road

When J. Edward Addicks was sent to jail in New York a few days ago because he did not pay a judgment entered against him for fifteen thousand dollars "finis" was written to a remarkable career.

Addicks was one of the most luxuriant of a type of frenzied financiers, which the hot house financial conditions existing a few years ago, produced. His particular specialty was combining gas companies and gas properties, increasing the stock and securities and unloading them at big sums.

So proficient did Addicks become in his specialty and so successful was he in piling up huge sums of money in his coffers as a result of his exploitations of gas properties that he became known generally as "Gas" Addicks.

Addicks spent millions in lavish display and in politics. His one ambition politically was to go to the United States Senate and he came very near buying his way in but he failed.

With the change in political and financial conditions Addicks' star began to fade. The ill gotten millions his political boosters did not obtain from him on false pretenses, he lavished in entertaining "fair weather" friends and now Addicks is broke and in jail for debt.

A millionaire a few years ago with friends and influence and a pauper now with his friends gone.

Addicks is to be pitied as a matter of course but his crimes against society, against the common people of the land and his conspiracy to debase the right of franchise justifies the punishment he is now receiving.

It's another case of "come easy and go easy" and in Addicks' case it did go easy and go rapidly.

The road Addicks traveled has but one end.

These Days of Showers

The people who live in the rural districts understand the great values which these prolonged "spells" of wet weather store away in the earth and consequently, there is not much likelihood of them becoming impatient because we are not having enjoyable days.

The people in the cities who must remain housed up while the rainy weather continues are inclined to think we have had plenty of rain long before such a thought is justified by fact.

The rainfall in this section is still very materially short of the average. We have enjoyed an unusually dry winter and spring and, in order that the underground streams and reservoirs may be filled before the dry hot summer compels the vegetation to obtain moisture from below, nature is sending rain and plenty of it.

During the long hot days of August and September experience has taught us that the clear bright sky is not overcast with storm clouds often enough to provide the needed showers. It is then that the reserve supply we are now receiving and which the earth is storing away beneath the surface becomes of unestimable value.

The urban folks who sigh for dry roads and sunshine in order that they may get out of the cities and towns into the open country should be patient. They should be content with the thought that just this kind of weather is what makes the beautiful open country and the growing crops possible and so enjoyable in the hot season to come when the need to get away from the city is greater than it is now.

Poetry For Today

MY SON.

I that had yearned for youth, my own, again,
And mourned the wasted hours of younger days,
I that had sighed for spring, for summer, when
The snows of Winter covered all my ways—
I that had prayed for years, for only one,
Have found that prayer answered in my son.

He is myself again, with hopes of old,
With old temptations and with old desires;
He is myself again—the clay to mold
Into the man, and all the man aspires,
Who says that youth returns to us no more?
He is as I was in the days of yore.

In my own days, in my own days of youth,
Ah, how I wished a comrade and a friend!
To help me keep the quiet path of truth
And through temptation my own feet attend.

So shall I journey onward by his side,
His father—yea, his comrade and his guide.

I that have failed shall shape success in him,
I that have wandered point the proper path.

A signal when the signal lights are dim,
A roof to fend him from the storms of wrath—

So we shall journey upward, I and he,
And he shall be the man I meant to be.

Luke McLuke Says

There isn't anything in the world nicer than a pretty girl who can manufacture a blush without digging into her hand bag for the rouge.

The reason why a woman wears her hats too big is because she wears her shoes too small.

The reason why more women do not look like kitchen mechanics out for a holiday is not because they use good taste in dressing. It is because they can't afford to buy loud clothes.

A year after her marriage the most interesting men in the world to a woman is the man she could have married and didn't.

The men who think they know it all are only outnumbered by the men who think they are the hardest worked people in the world.

An insurance man's idea of a cinch would be to have a live insurance company in which a lot of tads like Methusalem had taken out ordinary policies when they were about twenty years old.

If a girl wants you badly enough she can twist a remark about the weather into a proposal.

Some lads go out and borrow trouble so they will be able to announce that trouble drove them to drink.

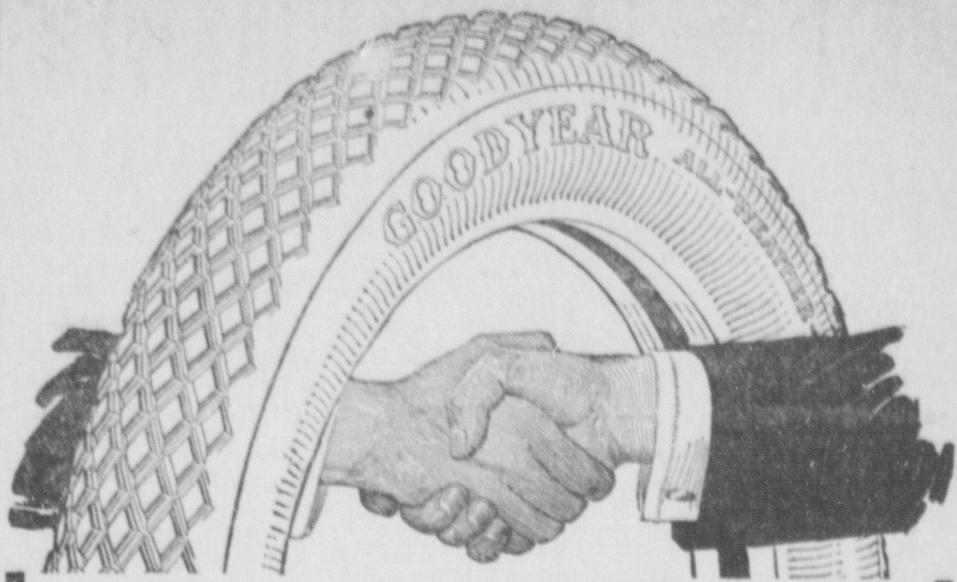

Before he gets her she is one girl in a million. After he gets her he wishes he had taken a chance with the other 999,999.

Any old time a man stops a woman on the street and doesn't tip his hat to her and doesn't make an idiot out of himself trying to make an impression on her you can bet that woman is his wife.

Women's shoes are supposed to be larger than the feet that wear them. We said they are supposed to be.

It doesn't do a woman much good to keep her husband's old love letters and read them to him ten years after they are married. They only help to convince friend husband that he was insane when he married her.

The lad who is wearing a celluloid collar often kicks because some other man is wearing a suit that smells of moth balls.

The Co-operative Tire

Goodyear has always built co-operative tires. Every saving has gone to the user. The more men bought the better we built them, and the lower we sold them.

That is why Goodyear has held top place, outselling any other tire.

3 Reductions

Note that in two years we made three big price reductions. The last—on February 1st—brought the total to 45 per cent.

Yet in costly ways these tires have been bettered. In not one iota were they ever skimped.

Our Fortified Tire is still "On-Air" cured to save blow-outs. Yet that one extra cost us $450,000 yearly.

It still has our No-Rim-Cut feature. It has in each base 126 braided piano wires to make the tire secure. It embodies hundreds of rubber rivets, formed to combat loose treads.

Our All-Weather tread is still double-thick. It still has the sharp, tough, resistless grips.

Those extras—all exclusive to Goodyear—are all retained, despite our price reductions. And we still spend $100,000 yearly to discover new ways to better them.

Your Ally

In all these ways, Goodyear is your ally. You do injustice to yourself when you fail to secure this advantage. Never in tire history was such value given as you get in Goodyear tires today.

No smaller makers can ever give so much.

Luke McLuke Says

There isn't anything in the world nicer than a pretty girl who can manufacture a blush without digging into her hand bag for the rouge.

The reason why a woman wears her hats too big is because she wears her shoes too small.

The reason why more women do not look like kitchen mechanics out for a holiday is not because they use good taste in dressing. It is because they can't afford to buy loud clothes.

A year after her marriage the most interesting men in the world to a woman is the man she could have married and didn't.

The men who think they know it all are only outnumbered by the men who think they are the hardest worked people in the world.

An insurance man's idea of a cinch would be to have a live insurance company in which a lot of tads like Methuselah had taken out ordinary policies when they were about twenty years old.

If a girl wants you badly enough she can twist a remark about the weather into a proposal.

Some lads go out and borrow trouble so they will be able to announce that trouble drove them to drink.

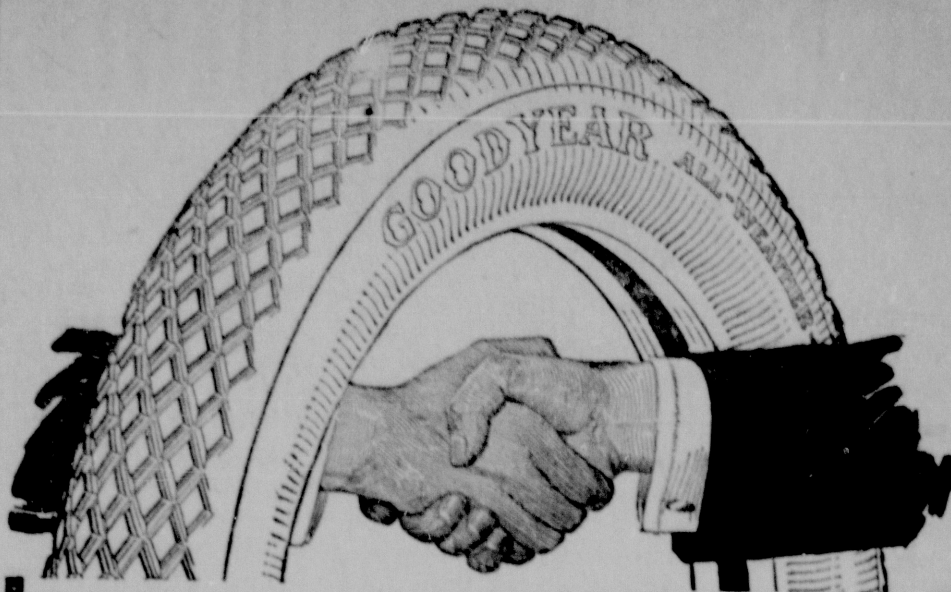

Before he gets her she is one girl in a million. After he gets her he wishes he had taken a chance with the other 999,999.

Any old time a man stops a woman on the street and doesn't tip his hat to her and doesn't make an idiot out of himself trying to make an impression on her you can bet that woman is his wife.

Women's shoes are supposed to be larger than the feet that wear them. We said they are supposed to be.

It doesn't do a woman much good to keep her husband's old love letters and read them to him ten years after they are married. They only help to convince friend husband that he was insane when he married her.

The lad who is wearing a celluloid collar often kicks because some other man is wearing a suit that smells of moth balls.

The Co-operative Tire

Goodyear has always built co-operative tires. Every saving has gone to the user. The more men bought the better we built them, and the lower we sold them.

That is why Goodyear has held top place, outselling any other tire.

3 Reductions

Note that in two years we made three big price reductions. The last—on February 1st—brought the total to 45 per cent. Yet in costly ways these tires have been bettered. In not one iota were they ever skimped.

Our Fortified Tire is still "On-Air" cured to save blow-outs. Yet that one extra costs us $450,000 yearly.

It still has our No-Rim-Cut feature. It has in each base 126 braided piano wires to make the tire secure. It embodies hundreds of rubber rivets, formed to combat loose treads.

Our All-Weather tread is still double-thick. It still has the sharp, tough, resistless grips.

Those extras—all exclusive to Goodyear—are all retained, despite our price reductions. And we still spend $100,000 yearly to discover new ways to better them.

Your Ally

In all these ways, Goodyear is your ally. You do injustice to yourself when you fail to secure this advantage. Never in tire history was such value given as you get in Goodyear tires today.

No smaller makers can ever give so much.

Any dealer will supply you. (237)

DR. C. W. BLODGETT DELIVERS ELOQUENT MEMORIAL ADDRESS

In bringing Rev. Charles W. Blodgett from Cincinnati to deliver an address at the annual Epworth League Memorial, Wednesday night, the patriotic members of the league crowned all past successes and not only paid a compliment to the G. A. R. but gave an opportunity to the local public to hear one of the most eloquent speakers on the lecture platform.

Grace church was filled, the auditorium largely reserved for the G. A. R. Posts and auxiliary organizations and the enthusiastic reception given to Col. Blodgett was in itself a heart-some tribute.

The handsome church was elaborately decorated in flags, bunting, red and white flowers.

The musical part of the program was worthy of the speaker. Mrs. Frank Blessing played the organ prelude as the orders marched in and stood to sing "America."

"Marching Through Georgia" was splendidly sung by a quartet, Mrs. Arthur Burgett, Miss Jessie Leavell, Messrs R. R. Kibler and Rankin Paul, and followed by an exquisite violin interpretation of "Adoration"—Borowaky, by Mr. Kneisley, Miss Mable Briggs accompanist.

Miss Jessie Leavell sang the soldier's favorite, "Annie Laurie," very sweetly, with violin obligato by Mr. Kneisley.

Rev. Blodgett held the large audience in spellbound attention. Always a wonderful speaker, he was at his best and delivered an entirely new speech, introducing phases of patriotism suggested by the present war.

Very beautifully he presented a dream of the old soldier throughout eternity in the realm of the golden gates and with much tenderness referred to the faces of prominent local G. A. R. men he missed from the audience here, but hoped to see in the eternal day.

After touching upon scenes and reminiscences of the war with burning eloquence, Rev. Blodgett entered upon present national issues.

He brought out forcefully the thought that God had in mind at the time of the civil war, the unification of this people into the great nation it now is, able to act as peace-maker for the whole world. If it had been a divided country its present greatness could never have been attained. The speaker said, "We can afford to have our pride humbled a little to hold this place among the nations of the earth in the present crisis."

Rev. Blodgett said that America would have worse enemies to fight in future years than ever in the past and that it was important that our country produce courageous people to fight such menaces as socialism and intemperance.

Mrs. Blessing played national airs as the veterans left the church.

NEW EPISCOPALIAN CHURCH TO BE ERECTED ON MARKET

St. Andrew's Episcopal Church of this city has leased the Burnett property on Market street, between Main and Hinde streets, the site of the old opera house, for the erection of a church building. Plans of the proposed building have been completed for some time, and the site now being selected, work will be begun on the foundation immediately.

The plans selected call for a simple, one story building, fifty-seven feet long by twenty-seven wide, with a vestibule entrance six feet by six feet. The main auditorium, twenty-seven feet wide by forty-eight long will seat one hundred and fifty people. A choir room is provided at the rear of the building with lockers to accommodate the vested choir.

St. Andrew's church was organized in Washington C. H. in 1911 by Archdeacon Cooke, of Dayton, under the direction of Bishop Boyd Vincent. During the three years and a half of its existence it has had a slow but steady growth, and its prospects are bright for a future of large usefulness to the community.

One year ago the church moved from its home in the G. A. R. Hall to its present quarters on the ground floor of the new Y. M. C. A. Annex. This year the trustees determined that the time was ripe for the organization to have a home of its own, and after a thorough canvass of the situation the site of the old opera house was selected for the new church building.

JURY WHEEL READY FOR HEAVY ATTACKS

Jury Commissioners Geo. Inskeep and W. R. Dalbey, Thursday afternoon completed the work of replenishing the jury wheel, adding some 500 names and bringing the list of prospective jurors up to probably the largest number in the history of the county.

The great number of new names added is due to the expected heavy demands in the two murder cases which come up within a short time.

BUSINESS HOUSES TO CLOSE MONDAY

In accordance with the general observance of Monday, a legal holiday, as Decoration Day, a general closing of banks, mercantile establishments and grocery stores is announced for that day.

Definite announcement of the general closing was made Thursday, and as a result the entire day will be observed as a day upon which to pay tribute to the dead and to display

the patriotic spirit of true American citizens.

It is urged that every citizen in Washington and Fayette county fling Old Glory to the breeze early Monday morning and let the flags remain throughout the day.

With half the world at war the American flag should now mean more to Americans than ever before.

FLOWERS WANTED FOR DECORATION

The Sons of Veterans respectfully call on the people of Washington to furnish flowers for the decoration of the graves of our soldier dead, and urge that the flowers be made ready early Monday morning next.

School children will call at the homes of Washington citizens Monday morning and will at once take all flowers to the Central school building for preparation.

SHIPPING BAN AGAIN ON XENIA

The placing of an embargo on live stock shipments from Xenia to Pittsburgh has given rise to the belief that traces of foot and mouth disease have been discovered among animals shipped from that point, and the people of Greene county are anxiously awaiting full details.

Xenia is the inspection center for cars in operation on the Cincinnati and Indianapolis divisions of the Pennsylvania Railroad. A special gang of workmen is employed constantly in cleaning and disinfecting cars. Inspectors from headquarters in Dayton visit the Xenia yards after cars have been cleaned and place their card of inspection on the car.

The cause for the replacing of the ban on shipments was not made known in the message to the Xenia officials.

MAYOR, CITY OFFICIALS AND PROMINENT BUSINESS MEN IN PARTY — VISIT DAYTON POWER PLANT AND RECEIVE INFORMATION WITH REGARD TO CLUSTER LIGHTING — DAYTON MEN INDICATE LIKELIHOOD OF THEIR ENTERING INTO COMPETITION FOR LOCAL LIGHTING FRANCHISE.

Five auto loads of local city officials and business men comprised a party which Wednesday made a trip to Dayton with the purpose of looking over the system of cluster lighting so extensively employed in that city. The trip was highly successful and how that the local men have seen the lighting systems of both London and Dayton they feel that they have been greatly aided toward a proper choice of those to be installed here.

The party included several members of the city council, Mayor Coffey, Service Director Gerstner and City Solicitor Gregg. The autos, together, left here at promptly four o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Arriving in Dayton at about 7 o'clock the local party first spent some time driving about the principal streets of the Gem City where the cluster lights are used. Later the members of the party visited the plant of the Dayton Light and Power Company.

Here they were received by the assistant general manager, Mr. A. H. Hutchings, and General Commercial Agent T. F. Kelley, of the company, who discussed with them the cost of maintenance of cluster lights, system of installation, size of lights, etc. The local men were told that the expense of the cluster lights was slightly more than of the arc system, but many times as effective, both in lighting and in beautifying streets.

An interesting feature of this meeting was an expression on the part of the Dayton men that their plant would probably enter into the competitive bidding when the matter of a contract for supplying city light comes up in Washington next month.

After the meeting, which ended about 10:30 o'clock, the local party departed for home.

DELIVERS ADDRESS AT JEFFERSONVILLE

Rev. F. E. Ross delivered a fine address on the subject "Education and Life," at the reception tendered to the graduates of the Jeffersonville High school by the Epworth League of Jeffersonville, at the M. E. church of that city Wednesday night.

Good music and readings were included in the program, after which came refreshments and a social hour. The guests were confined to the graduates and their parents, the Board of Education and the teachers.

The Woman's Guild of the Presbyterian church will hold a Saturday market on Saturday, June 5th.

THE CORNCOB PIPE.

At Times It's Risky, and It Doesn't Go Well With a Silk Hat.

The corncob pipe is a democratic institution. One evidence of the fact that this country is not so democratic as foreigners believe is that, according to the code of an American gentleman, the corncob pipe must not be smoked while wearing a silk hat. On the other hand, it may be for this reason that Americans so seldom affect the silk hat.

But some men find difficulty in adapting themselves to the "Missouri meerschaum." They contend that the first puff from a new corncob pipe is like a breath from the nether regions. This aversion arises from the circumstance that, like a sponge, a new corncob pipe should be dipped in water before it is used. After the first pipeful of tobacco has been smoked it will be found that a liberal coat of ashes has attached itself to the walls of the pipe.

rendering it thereafter much less likely to burn the tongue than if it were initiated without the formality of baptism.

There is one place, however, where the cob pipe is distinctly dangerous, and that is in the mouth of a beginner in the mellow art of smoking. Mothers who dread the day when their sons shall feel obliged to assert their entrance into man's estate by acquiring a taste of tobacco will do well to buy a corncob pipe and leave it carelessly about the house. In time it will be missed. So will the boy's appetite. But the appetite will come back—Indianapolis News.

In Social Circles

Miss Gardner, Miss Edith Gardner, Mrs. W. B. Rodgers added a particularly charming affair to the social season in their reception of Wednesday afternoon.

Not in the environment of Washington is there a home which lends itself more perfectly to generous entertaining than the beautiful old Gardner homestead, with its surrounding sweep of lawn and its imposing rooms and wide halls. It was the most attractive, the velvety green of the lawn and the shrubbery the brighter for the morning's sun, and indoors a wealth of spring flowers transforming the rooms into comfortable bowers of bloom.

The atmosphere radiated hospitality, over a hundred guests, in charming groups, enjoying the cordial greetings of the hostesses and their assistants, and lingering beyond the stated hours.

The dining room was exceptionally attractive, its handsome circular table supporting a superb center embellishment of yellow and white snapdragons spraying in artistic arrangement to the outside edges.

A group of pretty young girls were in attendance here and after the serving of an elaborate collation, based on favors of white sweet peas. Many effective spring toilettes added new tints to the bright hues of flowers throughout the rooms.

Miss Gardner was wearing a becoming gown of mode flowered silk, a relief of lace.

Miss Edith Gardner's gown was of aged silk in white and black, with trimmings of cherry velvet.

Mrs. Rodgers wore a pretty gown flowered green silk, with garniture of lace.

Assisting in the parlors were Mesdames D. S. Craig, Joseph H. Harper, George H. Hitchcock, Fred West, Misses Minnie Light, Bess B. Cleaveland, Mary Elizabeth Johnson, and in the dining room, Misses Ada Woodward, Dorothy Rodgers, Gretchen Willis, Ruth Reid, Edith Worthington, Kathleen Davis.

The Guild Kensington, entertained at the spacious home of Mrs. W. R. Smith, proved a most pleasurable affair of Wednesday afternoon.

The assisting hostesses were Mesdames Joseph Kimball, Roscoe Baughn, Wert Baughn, P. O. Daughers, J. D. Post and Willis Lansing.

Mrs. Harry Daughters of Columbus was an out of town guest.

The guild is planning for a series of entertainments.

The B. Y. P. U. social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Snider, Wednesday night, was thoroughly enjoyed by fifty young people.

Mr. and Mrs. Snider extended freely the hospitality of their home and everything contributed to a good time.

A short musical program included piano solos by Mary Elizabeth Snider and Katharine Snider and vocal solos by Rev. A. W. West and Mrs. Walter McLean.

Roses and peonies scented the rooms and tempting refreshments were served.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

Mr. Loring Brock successfully operated on Milton Hegler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orris Hegler, for adenoids and tonsils Thursday morning.

Mrs. Jacob Stoltz and daughter Alva were shopping visitors here to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Allen attended the funeral of Mrs. Ed Allen at West Chester Wednesday.

Mrs. N. S. Barnett went to Columbus Thursday morning to visit her sister, Mrs. T. F. Kinnear.

Mr. and Mrs. George Murray and daughter, of Austin, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Hopkins and Mrs. Edwards, for the commencement night.

Mrs. Lon Mark and Mrs. P. J. Burke went to Sabina, Thursday, to the guests of Mrs. Dan Mark.

Mrs. W. A. Stewart, who was called to Bloomingburg some weeks ago by the illness and subsequent death of her mother, Mrs. M. J. Eggleston, returned to her home in Olympia, Wash.

Mr. Harry Daughters came down from Columbus Thursday afternoon to join his wife and baby at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Loofborrow, of Columbus, are the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Harry Fitzgerald, and family for the commencement.

Mrs. Virginia Willis has returned from an extended visit with relatives in Orlando, Fla. Miss Margaret Hamilton, of Orlando, accompanied her home, and is the guest of Mrs. Willis and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hopkins.

Miss Florence King, of the 1915 class, has as her guests Mrs. J. R. Conner, Mr. Fred Conner and Miss Corinne Conner, for commencement.

Dr. R. M. Hughey was called to Bainbridge Wednesday night by the serious illness of his brother, Mr. Revello Hughey. Mr. Hughey's condition is improved today.

Washington friends will regret to learn that Mrs. Willard Barnett underwent an operation for appendicitis at her home in Shawnee, Okla., the first of the week. Mr. Earl Barnett was apprised of Mrs. Barnett's serious condition Thursday morning and the fact that no further word has been received is encouraging.

Washington friends will be interested to learn of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Morrison Ball (nee Helen Steece) of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Robert McCoy, of Bloomingburg, is the guest of Mrs. James Hays to attend the commencement.

Mrs. Frank Michaels and daughter Jean went to Dayton Thursday to visit Mrs. D. W. Martin.

In Social Circles

Miss Gardner, Miss Edith Gardner, Mrs. W. B. Rodgers added a particularly charming affair to the social season in their reception of Wednesday afternoon.

Not in the environment of Washington is there a home which lends itself more perfectly to generous entertaining than the beautiful old order homestead, with its surrounding sweep of lawn and its impressive rooms and wide halls. It was the most attractive, the velvet green of the lawn and the shrubbery the brighter for the morning's sun, and indoors a wealth of spring flowers transforming the rooms into bowered bower of bloom.

The atmosphere radiated hospital- ity, over a hundred guests, in charm- ing groups, enjoying the cordial greetings of the hostesses and their attendants, and lingering beyond the usual hours.

The dining room was exceptional- ly attractive, its handsome circular supporting a superb center em- broidered of yellow and white snap- ons spraying in artistic arrange- ment to the outside edges.

A group of pretty young girls were attendance here and after the ring of an elaborate collation, many on favors of white sweet peas, and effective spring toilettes ad- dressed in the bright hues of flowers throughout the rooms.

Miss Gardner was wearing a be- coming gown of mode flowered silk, in relief of lace.

Miss Edith Gardner's gown was of silk in white and black, with trimmings of cherry velvet.

Mrs. Rodgers wore a pretty gown flowered green silk, with garnit- ure of lace.

ITALIANS ARE PUSHED BACK

Vienna, May 27.—The Austrian government issued the following statement regarding the operations on the Italian frontier: "In Tyrol a division of the enemy entered Condino and the Judicarien (Giudicaria) valley. The Italians fled from Kadin pass when the first shots were fired. On the Carinthian frontier our troops repelled attacks of the enemy, who lost heavily. The enemy fled east of Ploeken pass, leaving their arms on the field."

CHAMPIONS QUALIFYING

Columbus, May 27.—Forty-eight of the county champions out of a total of eighty-eight expected have been formally "entered" for the state spelling championship contest to be held in this city June 4. They were listed at the offices of the state agricultural commission, under whose auspices the contest will be held. Some of the counties have not yet held their contests to determine who shall represent them in the state contest, and others have not reported their winners.

BATTLESHIP SUNK BY A SUBMARINE

London, May 27.—The British battleship Triumph has been torpedoed and sunk in the Dardanelles. A majority of the crew were saved. This announcement was made by the admiralty through the official press bureau.

"While operating," says the admiralty announcement, "in support of the Australian and New Zealand troops on the Gallipoli peninsula, H. M. S. Triumph, Captain Maurice Fitzmaurice, was torpedoed by a submarine and sank shortly afterwards. A majority of the officers and men are reported to have been saved, including the captain and commander. The submarine which fired the torpedo was chased by destroyers and patrolling craft, but finally managed to get away."

The Triumph is the fourth great British battleship to be lost in the bombardment of the Turkish forts at the Dardanelles. The French have lost one battleship, the Bouvet, which makes a total of five first class warships sent to the bottom since the attempt to clear the way to Constantinople began, in addition to the loss of at least three submarines and the serious damage of several other battleships, cruisers, destroyers and transports.

Fifth to Be Blown Up.

The first serious loss occurred on March 19, when the Ocean and the Irresistible, British battleships, and the Bouvet, French, struck floating mines as they were proceeding toward the Narrows and were sunk with great loss of life. The Bouvet went down in less than three minutes, more than 500 of her crew being killed outright by the explosion or drowned later.

Only two weeks ago, on May 13, another British battleship, the Goliath, was torpedoed in the straits. She sank with such rapidity that only a few of her crew could be saved, some 500 men and officers being killed or drowned.

So the Triumph is the second victim of Turkish submarines. The two losses through this medium having occurred within such a short time of each other may be taken to indicate that the Turkish fleet has been strengthened by the addition, undoubtedly from Germany, of submarine craft, a fact which will hereafter make the position of the attacking fleet far more hazardous in the future than it has been in the past.

A Constantinople dispatch says that the Triumph was sunk by a single torpedo and that she disappeared in seven minutes.

The Triumph was a vessel of 11,985 tons and of 12,500 horsepower. Her crew of officers and men in times of peace numbered about 700 men.

TAFT AND HARDING PRINCIPAL TALKERS

New York, May 27.—Ex-President Taft was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the twentieth annual banquet of the National Association of Manufacturers at the Waldorf. At this dinner, closing the two days' sessions of the manufacturers, ex-President Taft and Warren G. Harding, senator-elect from Ohio, deplored the effect legislative incompetency and selfish political interests have had in enacting legislation putting harmful and unnatural restraints upon business.

EMANUEL'S MEN MAKE A SWEEPING ADVANCE

Rome, May 27.—Italian troops are swarming through the mountain passes on both sides of the Trentino gulf, driving before them the Austrian garrisons of the forts guarding all the entrances to Tyrol, the Austrians in only a few cases offering resistance. The offensive on the Friaul and Carniola fronts, which was begun successfully Tuesday, continues, and heavy artillery duels with the Austrian batteries posted on the heights of the Isonzo are reported.

This army occupied Monte Pasubio, 7,300 feet high, and the chain of hills ending in Monte Baldo, 4,000 feet high, crowned by an Austrian fort which was constructed since the opening of the great war, as well as the principal defile on the Agno and Ledra rivers. The objective of this movement is evidently Rovereto, strongly fortified camp on the Adige, about twelve miles south of Trent, capital of Trentino.

At the same time Italian forces entered Tyrol by the Tonale pass, occupying Forcellina and Montozzo, while a third division proceeded up the Val Giudicaria, the same route followed by Garibaldi in 1866, taking Ponte di Caffaro in its thrust toward Riva, at the head of Lake Garda, which is connected by railroad with Rovereto.

All Passes Occupied.

All the passes leading through the Carnic Alps have been occupied. The object of the operations in this region, which is directly north of Udine, capital of Italian Friuli, is apparently to cut the Villach-Lienz-Bruneck-Franzenfeste railroad, which is the only line leading from Austria directly into southern Tyrol.

It is not known what Italian troops, nor how many, are engaged in these drives into the enemy's territory, but it is estimated that they number about 300,000 men on the Carniola and Friaul fronts alone. The Carniola army has organized the heights between the Isonzo and Judrio and are holding them against heavy artillery attacks from the batteries near Tolmein, at the junction of the Isonzo and the Idria. It is expected that the invaders will soon be in contact with the main defending forces of Germans and Austrians.

Reports have been received here that a large German army is on its way from Innsbruck, capital of Tyrol, down the valley of the Adige to Trent and Rovereto, probably, with the object of defending those towns and at the same time threatening an advance on the Italian base at Verona. This Italian position is an exposed one, and the railroad from Verona runs direct to Brescia, where there is an important small arms factory.

ALLIES PIERCE GERMAN LINES

London, May 27.—The British forces have pierced the German lines east of Festubert with a three mile wedge, and now occupy the first and second line of trenches of the enemy. This word came in the form of an official statement from Sir John French, issued by the press bureau.

The French official communique tells of the French holding their own after their great successes north of Arras. In the face of desperate attacks of the Germans they gave ground only once, and that was when the enemy occupied for a short time a portion of the trenches around the position known as Les Cornailles. They were soon after routed, and in no other salient were they able to make any headway.

CHILD ACCIDENTALLY HANGS SELF TO DEATH

New York, May 27.—Louis Kahnweiler, Jr., was found dead from hanging in his playroom in the home of his parents. The coroner and boy's family believe that while he was playing hangman by himself a chair slipped from under his feet, and that he was accidentally killed.

UNCLE SAM'S NAVY IS ABLE AND EFFICIENT; HAS 225 CRAFT READY

Seventy-seven Vessels Now In Course of Building, Including Nine of Dreadnought Class.

Submarine Flotilla Will Soon Be Augmented by Thirty-eight Boats—Many Reserve Ships.

By FREDERICK R. TOOMBS.

THE United States navy has been described by some critics as being inefficient and unready for real war, but undoubtedly the calamity howlers have not taken the trouble to ascertain the actual facts in regard to it. Uncle Sam's navy is both ready and efficient and is a fighting arm of impressive proportions.

The navy has now in active service, in full commission, 225 vessels of all descriptions, from super-Dreadnoughts—ships of the first line—to fuel carriers and hospital and supply craft. The list of vessels in reserve, ready in commission in reserve are the battleships Alabama and the Maine; the armored cruisers San Diego, West Virginia and South Dakota; the cruisers Brooklyn, Charleston, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Chicago, Albany, Marblehead, Montgomery and Salem. Destroyers, monitors and gunboats are also in this class.

Out of commission temporarily are the battleships Indiana, Iowa and Massachusetts and several cruisers, destroyers and gunboats.

In a recent letter from Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, to President Garfield of Williams college, in regard to the progress of the navy in recent years, Mr. Daniels stated the following in part:

"Under the direction of Admiral Fletcher, upon plans evolved at the Naval War college and approved by the department, the fleet has been busied in tactics to try out its efficiency and readiness. All reports tell of the enthusiasm of officers and men in this practice and the splendid record made by the ships."

"Strenuous Practice."

"The spring practice followed close upon the heels of valuable maneuvers and tactics in October, November and December last. This was indeed strenuous practice, but it is the way the navy is kept fit and ready, and the new admiral in command of the fleet and the department planned such extensive evolutions because the only way that the navy can be always prepared is by practice, and practice, and then more practice."

"This simple statement of the operations of the fleet since October is one of the best answers I can give to your question as to the navy's preparedness. The necessity of keeping ships in Mexico last year denied Admiral Badger the opportunity for as long practice as he had wisely planned, but the sudden call for the expedition to Vera Cruz demanded and exacted unusual service, to which the fleet responded with an alacrity and readiness which amply justify the faith of the country that there exists today no more efficient institution than the United States navy."

"Some critics have said the efficiency of the fleet was reduced by reason of going to Vera Cruz. To our regret, certain maneuvers and target practice of value were necessarily omitted. The emergency experience, however, of a year of stress and strain was of far greater value in one important respect than the well planned routine, because it gave a demonstration of the readiness of the navy in every department, afloat and ashore, to meet an urgent call."

Its Flexibility.

"Its flexibility was shown in adjusting itself to entirely new and unexpected situations, as well as its remarkable adaptability in handling every problem presented to it."

"It must be conceded by all that the best school and preparation for war is war itself, and it was almost under this condition that our fleet acted in proceeding almost in a day to Mexican waters. The stay at Vera Cruz, however, did not prevent practice, for the ships, individually or in divisions, during a great part of the time held tactical maneuvers, torpedo proving practice and subcaliber drills in preparation for target practice."

"For many years officers have written and talked about the formation of advance base material and the practice of exercising landing parties of seamen and marines in the use of this important adjunct to naval warfare. Congress appropriated money for this important plan of campaign, but never until January of last year was the navy thus exercised."

"There had been plenty of talk, but not until January of last year was it undertaken. Then, under instructions from the department, Admiral Badger carried out a comprehensive exercise in which the professional advantages gained by officers and men were inestimable."

"Three months after this extensive practice had been given for the first time in our navy the same fleet and the same men were called upon to land at Vera Cruz, and in the taking of that city the navy carried out under fire what had been learned at Culebra."

$70,000,000 For the Navy.

"During the first two years of the Wilson administration upon my recommendation congress authorized the construction of five Dreadnoughts, to cost about $14,000,000 each. Stated in dollars, the Wilson administration in its first two years authorized $70,000,000 to be spent on the chief fighting force of the navy."

"As to submarines, these wonderful agencies of war have astonished the world in the present European conflict. The Sixty-third congress ordered the construction of three seagoing submarines, the largest ever authorized by any country, and twenty-three submarines of the same size and type which have done such fearful execution in the present war. These submarines will cost $16,200,000."

"Some of our submarines are not as perfect as they should be, nor are the submarines of any other nation. Under this administration, however, the board of inspections has adopted stricter tests before accepting submarines from contractors. Nobody has as yet perfected a satisfactory engine or satisfactory battery for submarines."

"Upon my invitation Mr. Edison came down into a submarine and closely studied its every feature. He thought he has a battery that will meet the need. Our tests at the Brooklyn navy yard cause us to believe Mr. Edison has the right principle. Without waiting for the completion of his battery he has been given an order for two one to be put into an old submarine accepted before March 4, 1913, when battery does not give satisfaction, and one for a new submarine which I have ordered built in the Portsmouth (N. H.) navy yard."

Government to Build Submarine

"Private firms building submarines have not given entire satisfaction. They have equipped the Portsmouth navy yard to build submarines, and by competition between private and government construction it is hoped that every obstacle may be overcome."

"As to torpedoes, a statement has been put in circulation that the navy is not making adequate provision to supply itself with torpedoes. The answer I can make is to state the fact that we either have on hand or have placed orders for all the torpedoes the general board prescribes."

"As to mines and mining, during the last two years unprecedented progress has been made in the expansion of mining equipment. This was begun and was well under way before the last congress met. The navy not only has mines in its harbors, but is mining operations of the navy is confined to the immediate vicinity of the fleet and such mining as may be necessary on the high seas. The department has begun the manufacture of mines and in a short time will have thirty-one mines for every mine it had two years ago."

The New Fourteen Inch Gun.

"As to guns, the bureau of ordnance has developed a fourteen inch gun that will shoot farther, shoot straighter, hit harder than any gun now in use or known to be designed by a foreign country."

"As to powder, congress increased the capacity of the navy powder factory at Indian Head. When the extension now under way is completed the capacity will be nearly doubled."

"As to radio, radio has at last been successfully installed on submarines, and more than seventy-five other ships, which either had no radio or whose equipment was obsolete have been supplied with modern equipment. Three entirely new shore stations have been added to the chain—Baltimore, canal zone, Great Lakes, Illinois, and Trinitia, Salmon."

"As to air craft, the European war has emphasized the value of air craft. The navy has lagged behind in the instrument of war. Last year I appointed a board of aviation. It recommended the utilization of the abandoned navy yard at Pensacola as a training and repair station for aviation and an aviation bureau in the department. This has been done. Upon my earnest recommendation congress appropriated a million dollars to begin upon an elaborate plan, the real development of aviation in the navy."

Capable Aviators.

"It also approved my request to pay aviators an increase of 50 per cent, and we are organizing a class of capable aviators. To make immediately effective this feature three new hydroaeroplanes have just been purchased, which is but the beginning of the work of aviation, now well advanced along the lines of a well considered plan."

"As to savings effected, all this unprecedented increase in the navy has been secured, too, without large increase in appropriations. How? By avoiding unnecessary expenditure ashore, by reducing the cost of work ashore, while maintaining its quality and reducing appropriations for enlargement of shore stations, by securing real competition and by economy."

"But of what worth is a ship without well trained men? It is a pleasure to tell you that for the first time in years the enlistment is up to the limit prescribed by law, and part of the year we have had a waiting list."

ITALIANS ARE PUSHED BACK

Vienna, May 27.—The Austrian government issued the following statement regarding the operations on the Italian frontier: "In Tyrol a division of the enemy entered Condino and the Judicarien (Gudicaria) valley. The Italians fled from Kadin pass when the first shots were fired. On the Carinthian frontier our troops repelled attacks of the enemy, who lost heavily. The enemy fled east of Ploechen pass, leaving their arms on the field."

CHAMPIONS QUALIFYING

Columbus, May 27.—Forty-eight of the county champions out of a total of eighty-eight expected have been formally "entered" for the state spelling championship contest to be held in this city June 4. They were listed at the offices of the state agricultural commission, under whose auspices the contest will be held. Some of the counties have not yet held their contests to determine who shall represent them in the state contest, and others have not reported their winners.

Japan's policy toward China may be, as she asserts, "undecided," but her intentions seem to amble along in one direction.

BATTLESHIP SUNK BY A SUBMARINE

London, May 27.—The British battleship Triumph has been torpedoed and sunk in the Dardanelles. A majority of the crew were saved. This announcement was made by the admiralty through the official press bureau.

"While operating," says the admiralty announcement, "in support of the Australian and New Zealand troops on the Gallipoli peninsula, H. M. S. Triumph, Captain Maurice Fitzmaurice, was torpedoed by a submarine and sank shortly afterwards. A majority of the officers and men are reported to have been saved, including the captain and commander. The submarine which fired the torpedo was chased by destroyers and patroling craft, but finally managed to get away."

The Triumph is the fourth great British battleship to be lost in the bombardment of the Turkish forts at the Dardanelles. The French have lost one battleship, the Bouvet, which makes a total of five first class warships sent to the bottom since the attempt to clear the way to Constantinople began, in addition to the loss of at least three submarines and the serious damage of several other battleships, cruisers, destroyers and transports.

Fifth to Be Blown Up.

The first serious loss occurred on March 19, when the Ocean and the Irresistible, British battleships, and the Bouvet, French, struck floating mines as they were proceeding toward the Narrows and were sunk with great loss of life. The Bouvet went down in less than three minutes, more than 500 of her crew being killed outright by the explosion or drowned later.

Only two weeks ago, on May 13, another British battleship, the Gollath, was torpedoed in the straits. She sank with such rapidity that only a few of her crew could be saved, some 500 men and officers being killed or drowned.

So the Triumph is the second victim of Turkish submarines. The two losses through this medium having occurred within such a short time of each other may be taken to indicate that the Turkish fleet has been strengthened by the addition, undoubtedly from Germany, of submarine craft, a fact which will hereafter make the position of the attacking fleet far more hazardous in the future than it has been in the past.

A Constantinople dispatch says that the Triumph was sunk by a single torpedo and that she disappeared in seven minutes.

The Triumph was a vessel of 11,985 tons and of 12,500 horsepower. Her crew of officers and men in times of peace numbered about 700 men.

TAFT AND HARDING PRINCIPAL TALKERS

New York, May 27.—Ex-President Taft was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the twentieth annual banquet of the National Association of Manufacturers at the Waldorf. At this dinner, closing the two days' sessions of the manufacturers, ex-President Taft and Warren G. Harding, senator-elect from Ohio, deplored the effect legislative incompetency and selfish political interests have had in enacting legislation putting harmful and unnatural restraints upon business.

EMANUEL'S MEN MAKE A SWEEPING ADVANCE

Rome, May 27.—Italian troops are swarming through the mountain passes on both sides of the Trentino salient, driving before them the Austrian garrisons of the forts guarding all the entrances to Tyrol, the Austrians in only a few cases offering resistance. The offensive on the Friaul and Carniola fronts, which was begun successfully Tuesday, continues, and heavy artillery duels with the Austrian batteries posted on the heights of the Isonzo are reported.

This army occupied Monte Pasabio, 7,300 feet high, and the chain of hills ending in Monte Baldo, 4,000 feet high, crowned by an Austrian fort which was constructed since the opening of the great war, as well as the principal defile on the Agno and Ledra rivers. The objective of this movement is evidently Roverto, strongly fortified camp on the Adige, about twelve miles south of Trent, capital of Trentino.

At the same time Italian forces entered Tyrol by the Tonale pass, occupying Forcellina and Montozzo, while a third division proceeded up the Val Giudicaria, the same route followed by Garibaldi in 1866, taking Ponte di Caffaro in its thrust toward Riva, at the head of Lake Garda, which is connected by railroad with Roverto.

All Passes Occupied.

All the passes leading through the Carnic Alps have been occupied. The object of the operations in this region, which is directly north of Udine, capital of Italian Friuli, is apparently to cut the Villach-Lienz-Bruneck-Franzenfeldt railroad, which is the only line leading from Austria directly into southern Tyrol.

It is not known what Italian troops, nor how many, are engaged in these drives into the enemy's territory, but it is estimated that they number about 300,000 men on the Carniola and Friuli fronts alone. The Carniola army has organized the heights between the Isonzo and Judrio and are holding them against heavy artillery attacks from the batteries near Tolmeina, at the junction of the Isonzo and the Idria. It is expected that the invaders will soon be in contact with the main defending forces of Germans and Austrians.

Reports have been received here that a large German army is on its way from Innsbruck, capital of Tyrol, down the valley of the Adige to Trent and Roverto, probably, with the object of defending those towns and at the same time threatening an advance on the Italian base at Verona. This Italian position is an exposed one, and the railroad from Verona runs direct to Brescia, where there is an important small arms factory.

ALLIES PIERCE GERMAN LINES

London, May 27.—The British forces have pierced the German lines east of Festubert with a three mile wedge, and now occupy the first and second line of trenches of the enemy. This word came in the form of an official statement from Sir John French, issued by the press bureau.

The French official communique tells of the French holding their own after their great successes north of Arras. In the face of desperate attacks of the Germans they gave ground only once, and that was when the enemy occupied for a short time a portion of the trenches around the position known as Les Cornailles. They were soon after routed, and in no other salient were they able to make any headway.

CHILD ACCIDENTALLY HANGS SELF TO DEATH

New York, May 27.—Louis Kahnweiler, Jr., was found dead from hanging in his playroom in the home of his parents. The coroner and boy's family believe that while he was playing hangman by himself a chair slipped from under his feet, and that he was accidentally killed.

UNCLE SAM'S NAVY IS ABLE AND EFFICIENT; HAS 225 CRAFT READY

By FREDERICK R. TOOMBS.

THE United States navy has been described by some critics as being inefficient and unready for real war, but undoubtedly the calamity howlers have not taken the trouble to ascertain the actual facts in regard to it. Uncle Sam's navy is both ready and efficient and is a fighting arm of impressive proportions. The navy has now in active service, in full commission, 225 vessels of all descriptions, from super-dreadnoughts—ships of the first line—to fuel carriers and hospital and supply craft. Building Seventy-seven New Sea Fighters.

Under construction we have no less than seventy-seven fighting craft, classified as follows:

Nine Dreadnoughts, twenty-three destroyers, thirty-eight submarines and seven auxiliaries.

Surely this array of men-of-war in commission, in reserve and in construction is no uncertain indication that the United States will at all times be able to make her vast power strongly felt on the seas wherever the necessity may arise.

At present the personnel of the navy comprises 4,355 officers and about 60,000 enlisted men. And the number of officers and men is constantly on the increase.

The major part of the vessels in active service are divided into three general divisions—the Atlantic fleet, the Pacific fleet and the Asiatic fleet. Admiral Frank E. Fletcher is commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, and in the Pacific Admiral Thomas B. Howard is the chief commander. The chief of Admiral Fletcher's staff is Captain Harry McL. P. Huse, and Lieutenant Commander Frederick L. Oliver is first aid to Admiral Howard and is also the fleet engineer.

The Dreadnought Wyoming, 26,000 tons displacement and carrying thirty-three guns, is Admiral Fletcher's flagship. Admiral Howard's flagship is the armored cruiser Colorado, eighteen guns and 13,680 tons displacement.

Admiral Walter C. Cowles, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, uses the cruiser Saratoga as his flagship. She carries fourteen guns and displaces 8,115 tons.

Destroyers and Submarines.

Each fleet has a strong complement of torpedo destroyers and submarines.

The Atlantic fleet, much the strongest of the trio of divisions, is, of course, the most important, as it ranges in scope from Panama and Cuba to the northern boundary of Maine and protects the entire eastern seaboard of the country.

In the combined fleets are eight battleships of the first line, as follows: Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, New York, North Dakota, Texas, Utah and Wyoming.

Their list of second line battleships numbers seventeen, their armored cruisers six. They have torpedo destroyers to the number of thirty-three and thirty-eight submarines. In addition the fleets are supplied with gunboats, transports, converted yachts, tugs and vessels of special type, such as mine carriers and ammunition ships.

In commission in reserve are the battleships Alabama and the Maine; the armored cruisers San Diego, West Virginia and South Dakota; the cruisers Brooklyn, Charleston, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Chicago, Albany, Marblehead, Montgomery and Salem. Destroyers, monitors and gunboats are also in this class.

Out of commission temporarily are the battleships Indiana, Iowa and Massachusetts and several cruisers, destroyers and gunboats.

In a recent letter from Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, to President Garfield of Williams college, in regard to the progress of the navy in recent years, Mr. Daniels stated the following in part:

"Under the direction of Admiral Fletcher, upon plans evolved at the Naval War college and approved by the department, the fleet has been busied in tactics to try out its efficiency and readiness. All reports tell of the enthusiasm of officers and men in this practice and the splendid record made by the ships.

"Strenuous Practice."

"The spring practice followed close upon the heels of valuable maneuvers and tactics in October, November and December last. This was indeed strenuous practice, but it is the way the navy is kept fit and ready, and the new admiral in command of the fleet and the department planned such extensive evolutions because the only way that the navy can be always prepared is by practice, and practice, and then more practice.

"This simple statement of the operations of the fleet since October is one of the best answers I can give to your question as to the navy's preparedness. The necessity of keeping ships in Mexico last year denied Admiral Badger the opportunity for as long practice as he had wisely planned, but the sudden call for the expedition to Vera Cruz demanded and exacted unusual service, to which the fleet responded with an alacrity and readiness which amply justify the faith of the country that there exists today no more efficient institution than the United States navy.

"Some critics have said the efficiency of the fleet was reduced by reason of going to Vera Cruz. To our regret, certain maneuvers and target practice of value were necessarily omitted. The emergency experience, however, of a year of stress and strain was of far greater value in one important respect than the well planned routine, because it gave a demonstration of the readiness of the navy in every department, afloat and ashore, to meet an urgent call.

Its Flexibility.

"Its flexibility was shown in adjusting itself to entirely new and unexpected situations, as well as its remarkable adaptability in handling every problem presented to it.

"It must be conceded by all that the best school and preparation for war is war itself, and it was almost under this condition that our fleet acted in proceeding almost in a day to Mexican waters. The stay at Vera Cruz, however, did not prevent practice, for the ships, individually or in divisions, during a great part of the time held tactical maneuvers, torpedo proving practice and subcaliber drills in preparation for target practice.

"For many years officers have written and talked about the formation of advance base material and the practice of exercising landing parties of seamen and marines in the use of this important adjunct to naval warfare. Congress appropriated money for this important plan of campaign, but never until January of last year was the navy thus exercised.

"There had been plenty of talk, but not until January of last year was it undertaken. Then, under instructions from the department, Admiral Badger carried out a comprehensive exercise in which the professional advantages gained by officers and men were inestimable.

"Three months after this extensive practice had been given for the first time in our navy the same fleet and the same men were called upon to land at Vera Cruz, and in the taking of that city the navy carried out under fire what had been learned at Culebra.

$70,000,000 For the Navy.

"During the first two years of the Wilson administration upon my recommendation congress authorized the construction of five Dreadnoughts, to cost about $14,000,000 each. Stated in dollars, the Wilson administration in its first two years authorized $70,000,000 to be spent on the chief fighting force of the navy.

"As to submarines, these wonderful agencies of war have astonished the world in the present European conflict. The Sixty-third congress ordered the construction of three seagoing submarines, the largest ever authorized by any country, and twenty-three submarines of the same size and type which have done such fearful execution in the present war. These submarines will cost $16,200,000.

"Some of our submarines are not as perfect as they should be, nor are the submarines of any other nation. Under this administration, however, the board of inspections has adopted strict tests before accepting submarines from contractors. Nobody has as yet perfected a satisfactory engine or a satisfactory battery for submarines.

"Upon my invitation Mr. Edison is year at the New York navy yard was down into a submarine and close studied its every feature. He thought he has a battery that will meet the need. Our tests at the Brooklyn navy yard cause us to believe Mr. Edison has the right principle. Without waiting for the completion of his battery he has been given an order for two one to be put into an old submarine accepted before March 4, 1915, whose battery does not give satisfaction, an one for a new submarine which I have ordered built in the Portsmouth (N. H.) navy yard.

Government to Build Submarines.

"Private firms building submarines have not given entire satisfaction. I have equipped the Portsmouth navy yard to build submarines, and by competition between private and government construction it is hoped that every obstacle may be overcome.

"As to torpedoes, a statement is being put in circulation that the navy is not making adequate provision to supply itself with torpedoes. The answer I can make is to state the fact that we either have on hand or have placed orders for all the torpedoes the general board prescribes.

"As to mines and mining, during the last two years unprecedented progress has been made in the expansion of mining equipment. This was begun and was well under way before the last congress met. The navy is not, I may suppose, charged with the mining of our harbors. That is a function of the army. The extent of the mining operations of the navy is confined to the immediate vicinity of the fleet and such mining as may be necessary on the high seas. The department has begun the manufacture of mines and in a short time will have thirty-one mines for every mine it had two years ago.

The New Fourteen Inch Gun.

"As to guns, the bureau of ordnance has developed a fourteen inch gun that will shoot farther, shoot straighter and hit harder than any gun now in use or known to be designed by a foreign country.

"As to powder, congress increased the capacity of the navy powder factory at Indian Head. When the extension now under way is completed the capacity will be nearly doubled.

"As to radio, radio has at last been successfully installed on submarines, which either had no radio or whose equipment was obsolete have been supplied with modern equipment. Three entirely new shore stations have been added to the chain—Baltimore, canal zone, Great Lakes, Illinois, and Tutuila, Samoa.

REMEMBERED IN SCOTLAND

Soldiers of Our Civil War Have Memorial In Edinburgh Cemetery.

In one of the oldest burying grounds of Edinburgh, the Old Calton, which lies on a spur of the Calton crags, there stands close to the mausoleum that marks the grave of David Hume, philosopher and historian, a striking memorial, which, through the exertions of Wallace Bruce, formerly American consul in Edinburgh, was erected in 1893 to the memory of Scotsmen who fell in the American civil war. The memorial is visited by most of the American tourists who go to Edinburgh. It consists of a statue of Abraham Lincoln and, below it, kneeling with uplifted hands, a life size figure of one of the negro race whose freedom from slavery Lincoln secured.

The memorial on a recent Memorial day was draped with the flags of the United States and Scotland, and over the folds of the stars and stripes and St. Andrew's cross were laid a number of beautiful wreaths, while loose flowers were strewn around the granite base upon which the figures rest. A magnificent wreath of arum lilies, lilies of the valley and evergreens, was placed on the monument by the United States consul at Edinburgh, and another tribute was sent by the United States consul at Dunfermline.

Miss Margaret Taylor, a woman over eighty years of age, visited the ground and placed on the memorial a small sheaf of flowers in memory of her brother, John Taylor, who, on March 7, 1863, fell in a skirmish at Rappahannock. When he left Scotland Taylor received a presentation watch from his employer. The watch was found on him after his death and was sent home to his people in Scotland, with a letter which he had written to his sister the day before he fell.

"THE FIGHTING MCCOOKS."

No Other Family Has a Civil War Record Like Theirs.

I was halted the other day before a remarkable painting that hung in the splendid rotunda of the old capitol building, called the statehouse, in Columbus, O., says Desher Walsh in the National Monthly.

It represented a group of ten men, every one of them strong in feature. The central figure was that of a man of commanding presence, past middle life, clothed in the old fashioned uniform of a United States army officer, seated on a camp chair, backed by a tented canopy. Around him in graceful positions, apparently considering certain plans of battle, were the other nine. The scene itself was a shady nook amid rolling ground, and in the distance were a farmhouse and evidence of pastoral life such as daily confronted the soldier who participated in the American civil war.

This picture was labeled "The Fighting McCooks." The leader was Major Daniel McCook, and the others were his nine sons, every one of whom served in the army or navy of the United States. The father and three sons were killed in the struggle, four sons subsequently died in service, and another survived to become a well known lawyer of New York.

These were of "the tribe of Dan." Another branch was called "the tribe of Judah," in which there were five members, making a total of fifteen, every one of whom was a commissioned officer, excepting Charles, of the first tribe, a volunteer private, who declined a commission in the regular army and was killed in the first battle of Bull Run.

In all the annals of the war there is none more amazing, none more pulsating with heroism than this record of one family.

AT THE "BLOODY ANGLE."

Recalled by Civil War Survivors as a Very Hot Place.

One of the most desperate fights of the civil war was that which took place at the "Bloody Angle" on May 12, 1864. It is still remembered by the survivors as probably the hottest place they ever were in. General L. A. Grant, commander of the Vermont brigade, described the fight at the "dead line" as follows:

"It was not only a desperate struggle, but it was literally a hand to hand fight. Nothing but the piled up logs or breastworks separated the combatants. Our men would reach over the logs and fire into the faces of the enemy, who would stab over with their bayonets. Many were shot and stabbed through the crevices and holes between the logs. Men mounted the works and with muskets rapidly handed them often lies in the brassiere. Hundreds of thousands of women wear the Bien-Jolie Brassiere for the reason that they regard it as necessary as a corset. It supports the bust and back and gives the figure the youthful outline fashion desires.

Bien-Jolie are the simplest, most serviceable garments imaginable. Only the best of materials are used—for instance, "Wablon", a flexible boning of great durability—absolutely rustless—permitting laundering without removal.

They come in all styles, and your local Dry Goods dealer will show them to you on request. If you don't carry them, we can easily get them for you by writing to us. Send for an illustrated booklet showing styles that are in high favor. BENJAMIN & JONES 50 Warren Street Newark, N. J.

DROWNING OUT A FIRE.

High Pressure Water Streams That Tear Down Room Partitions.

Just think of picking up a pond or a small reservoir containing about 30,000 gallons of water and throwing it bodily at a fire, and then picking up another pond or reservoir containing the same amount of water and throwing that at the fire within a moment's time, and keeping up this performance every minute for an hour until the fire is drenched with nearly 2,000,000 gallons of water! Quite a "bucket brigade," eh?

Practically that is what the New York fire department does today with its high pressure system, for with this method of water supply the firemen can obtain 30,000 gallons of water a minute and, if necessary, at a maximum pressure of 300 pounds to the square inch—sufficient pressure or "pushing power" behind the stream to carry it from the street to the top of an eight story building or even higher. It has the greatest possible advantage over the "throwing" method, since the firemen, with the aid of their water towers and monitor nozzles, can direct right into the heart of the fire this immense volume of water—enormous streams that smash windows, tear down partitions, sweep aside merchandise and squirm, twist and force themselves into every nook and corner of a building, searching out the fire better than the firemen can and smothering it before it can reach the danger mark.

And this is why that in a portion of New York city noted a few years ago for destructive fires the big fire has, in a sense, disappeared.—Charles T. Hill in St. Nicholas.

GREAT FOUNTAIN GEYSER.

The Great Fountain geyser, in the Yellowstone National park, lies a mile and a half southeast of the Fountain geyser. It is the chief wonder of the lower basin and in some respects the most remarkable geyser in the park. Its formation is quite unlike that of any other.

At first sight the visitor is tempted to believe that some one has here placed a vast pedestal upon which to erect a monument. It is a broad, circular table about two feet high composed of hard, siliceous deposit. In its surface are numerous pools, molded and ornamented in a manner quite unapproachable, at least on so large a scale, in any other part of the park. In the center of the pedestal, where the monument ought to stand, is a large irregular pool of great depth, full of hot water, forming to all appearances a lovely, quiescent spring.

At times of eruption the contents of this spring are hurled bodily upward to a height sometimes reaching 100 feet. The torrent of water which follows the prodigious downpouring upon the face of the pedestal flows away in all directions over the white geyserite plain. No visitor to the Yellowstone can afford to miss the Great Fountain geyser. — "The Yellowstone National Park," by Hiram Martin Chittenden, Brigadier General United States Army, Retired.

Vegetable Ink.
There is in Colombia a curious vegetable product known as the ink plant. Its juice, called chanchi, can be used, it is said, without any previous preparation. The letters traced are of a reddish brown color at first, but turn a deep black in a few hours. This curious juice is less injurious to steel pens than the commercial inks. These qualities of the plant seem to have been discovered under the Spanish administration. Some writings intended for the mother country were wet through by sea water on the voyage. While the papers written with common ink were almost illegible, those written with the vegetable ink were quite uninjured. Orders were given in consequence that this plant juice be used for the inscribing of all public documents.—New York American.

ARMY BUGLES.

Fashioned From Sheets of Copper by an Ingenious Process.

From start to finish the making of an army bugle is a process of much ingenuity and interest. A bugle may not at first sight present a striking resemblance to its cousin, the coach horn, but one is practically a curled up version of the other, for before the bugle is bent into shape it consists of a narrow tube fifty-one inches long.

In the first stage of manufacture the bugle is cut out of sheet copper and rolled into two thin cylinders, technically known as the "bell" and the "branch." The narrow tube, which is the "bell," is gradually shaped out on molds until the opening is the regular four inches in diameter. It is then "spun" on a wonderful machine, and an expert workman takes the rough edges off the copper.

Both sections are afterward filled with molten lead preparatory to the bending stage, and it is this solid stuffing which prevents the tube breaking in the process and allows it to keep its shape. The expert workman, with the aid of a formidable lever and hammer, bends the bugle into the familiar shape, the lead being subsequently melted out at a charcoal furnace, after which the instrument is sent off to the polishers.

One of the most intricate parts of the bugle is the mouthpiece, which is made of nickel silver and turned out on a special lathe. With the mouthpiece fixed the instrument is ready for the testing room.—Pearson's Weekly.

BUCK THE LINE HARD.

People Who Do Big Things Do Not Let Themselves Be Held.

It was on the football field at one of the large colleges. A big tackle had been brought over to the varsity field from one of the class elevens. It was his first experience with the big team. He played a fine game until the other side had the ball. Then he did not "break through" as he should. The coach finally stopped the play and went over to him.

"What is the trouble? Why don't you get through?" he said.

"The man opposite me is not playing fair. He is holding me," said the tackle.

"If he holds you again I'll put you off the field!" flashed back the coach. Of course, as the tackle said, it was against the rules to hold an opponent unless he has the ball, but the coach wanted results and not excuses. His position was that a man ought somehow to break away; that no man must let himself be held. And that is true, no one ought to let himself be held. The excuse may be excellent, but a player who is held is put out of the game as effectively as if he were off the field. He might just as well be off the field. The people who accomplish things worth while in the world are those who will not let themselves be held. There have always been things enough to hold them. They might have found excellent excuses, but they have not had to use any excuses.—Youth's Companion.

Home For a Holiday.

Some men on a home holiday think all day long, others bring with them great many books which they never read, and the result in both cases is that housekeeping becomes a prolonged picking up. All men at home on a vacation eat a great deal more than other men or than at other times, but with the sole exception of the anomalous academic, who is always concerned for his gastronomy, they will eat anything and enjoy it and say so. A man at home for his holiday is always vociferously appreciative. He happiness is almost enough to repay a woman for the noise he makes and the mess, yet statistics could show that during any man's home vacation the women of the house lose just about as many pounds as the man gains. But what are women for, or homes?—Atlantic.

Perhaps the yellow races thought they must pull together in order to keep up with the European procession.

Following funeral services over the remains of James Chaffin, at the New Holland M. E. church, Thursday morning, the remains were transferred to South Solon, and there laid to rest.

Attorney T. L. Barker goes to Williamsport, Sunday, where he will deliver a Memorial address to the old soldiers in the afternoon at two o'clock.

DROWNING OUT A FIRE.

High Pressure Water Streams That Tear Down Room Partitions.

Just think of picking up a pond or a small reservoir containing about 30,000 gallons of water and throwing it bodily at a fire, and then picking up another pond or reservoir containing the same amount of water and throwing that at the fire within a moment's time, and keeping up this performance every minute for an hour until the fire is drenched with nearly 2,000,000 gallons of water! Quite a "bucket brigade," eh?

Practically that is what the New York fire department does today with its high pressure system, for with this method of water supply the firemen can obtain 30,000 gallons of water a minute and, if necessary, at a maximum pressure of 500 pounds to the square inch—sufficient pressure or "pushing power" behind the stream to carry it from the street to the top of an eight story building or even higher. It has the greatest possible advantage over the "throwing" method, since the firemen, with the aid of their water towers and monitor nozzles, can direct right into the heart of the fire this immense volume of water—enormous streams that smash windows, tear down partitions, sweep aside merchandise and squirm, twist and force themselves into every nook and corner of a building, searching out the fire better than the firemen can and smothering it before it can reach the danger mark.

And this is why that in a portion of New York city noted a few years ago for destructive fires the big fire has, in a sense, disappeared.—Charles T. Hill in St. Nicholas.

GREAT FOUNTAIN GEYSER.

The Great Fountain geyser, in the Yellowstone National park, lies a mile and a half southeast of the Fountain geyser. It is the chief wonder of the lower basin and in some respects the most remarkable geyser in the park. Its formation is quite unlike that of any other.

At first sight the visitor is tempted to believe that some one has here placed a vast pedestal upon which to erect a monument. It is a broad, circular table about two feet high composed of hard, siliceous deposit. In its surface are numerous pools, molded and ornamented in a manner quite unapproachable, at least on so large a scale, in any other part of the park. In the center of the pedestal, where the monument ought to stand, is a large irregular pool of great depth, full of hot water, forming to all appearances a lovely, quiescent spring.

At times of eruption the contents of this spring are hurled bodily upward to a height sometimes reaching 100 feet. The torrent of water which follows the prodigious downpouring upon the face of the pedestal flows away in all directions over the white geyserite plain. No visitor to the Yellowstone can afford to miss the Great Fountain geyser. — "The Yellowstone National Park," by Hiram Martin Chittenden, Brigadier General United States Army, Retired.

Vegetable Ink.

There is in Colombia a curious vegetable product known as the ink plant. Its juice, called chanchi, can be used, it is said, without any previous preparation. The letters traced are of a reddish brown color at first, but turn a deep black in a few hours. This curious juice is less injurious to steel pens than the commercial inks. These qualities of the plant seem to have been discovered under the Spanish administration. Some writings intended for the mother country were wet through by sea water on the voyage. While the papers written with common ink were almost illegible, those written with the vegetable ink were quite uninjured. Orders were given in consequence that this plant juice be used for the inscribing of all public documents.—New York American.

ARMY BUGLES.

From start to finish the making of an army bugle is a process of much ingenuity and interest. A bugle may not at first sight present a striking resemblance to its cousin, the coach horn, but one is practically a curled up version of the other, for before the bugle is bent into shape it consists of a narrow tube fifty-one inches long.

In the first stage of manufacture the bugle is cut out of sheet copper and rolled into two thin cylinders, technically known as the "bell" and the "branch." The narrow tube, which is the "bell," is gradually shaped out on molds until the opening is the regular four inches in diameter. It is then "spun" on a wonderful machine, and an expert workman takes the rough edges off the copper.

Both sections are afterward filled with molten lead preparatory to the bending stage, and it is this solid stuffing which prevents the tube breaking in the process and allows it to keep its shape. The expert workman, with the aid of a formidable lever and hammer, bends the bugle into the familiar shape, the lead being subsequently melted out at a charcoal furnace, after which the instrument is sent off to the polishers.

One of the most intricate parts of the bugle is the mouthpiece, which is made of nickel silver and turned out on a special lathe. With the mouthpiece fixed the instrument is ready for the testing room.—Pearson's Weekly.

BUCK THE LINE HARD.

People Who Do Big Things Do Not Let Themselves Be Held.

It was on the football field at one of the large colleges. A big tackle had been brought over to the varsity field from one of the class elevens. It was his first experience with the big team. He played a fine game until the other side had the ball. Then he did not "break through" as he should. The coach finally stopped the play and went over to him.

"What is the trouble? Why don't you get through?" he said.

"The man opposite me is not playing fair. He is holding me," said the tackle.

"If he holds you again I'll put you off the field," flashed back the coach. Of course, as the tackle said, it is against the rules to hold an opponent unless he has the ball, but the coach wanted results and not excuses. His position was that a man ought somehow to break away; that no man must let himself be held. And that is true, no one ought to let himself be held. The excuse may be excellent, but a player who is held is put out of the game as effectively as if he were off the field. He might just as well be off the field. The people who accomplish things worth while in the world are those who will not let themselves be held. There have always been things enough to hold them. They might have found excellent excuses, but they have not had to use any excuses.—Youth's Companion.

Home For a Holiday.

Some men on a home holiday take all day long, others bring with them great many books which they need read, and the result in both cases is that housekeeping becomes a prolonged picking up. All men at home on a vacation eat a great deal more than other men or than at other times, but with the sole exception of the anomalous academic, who is always concerned for his gastronomy, they will eat anything and enjoy it and say so. A man at home for his holiday is always vociferously appreciative. His happiness is almost enough to repay a woman for the noise he makes and the mess, yet statistics could show that during any man's home vacation the women of the house lose just about as many pounds as the man gains. But what are women for, or homes?—Atlantic.

Perhaps the yellow races thought they must pull together in order to keep up with the European procession.
